Cowboys need Aggies to wear silver and blue

The National Football League draft is just around the corner so it's time to do some wishful draft-day thinking.

There seems to be an abundance of Aggies eligible for this year's draft including Chris Crooms, Randy Simmons, Kary Vincent, Mark Wheeler and Ramsey Bradberry. These are all quality players who could get drafted by teams in the later rounds.

But if you really want to talk about Aggies who are the cream of the draft crop, the names Quentin Coryatt and Kevin Smith rise to the top.

Coryatt figures to be the higher drafted of the two players. Many scouts have tagged Coryatt as the No. 1 linebacker in the draft. While it's very doubtful he will be the top pick, he should be in the top ten.

The Cincinnati Bengals have expressed an interest in Coryatt. The Bengals have the fourth pick and need a linebacker to complement former Baylor linebacker James Francis.

Another team that would like Coryatt is the Dallas Cowboys. But those chances seem unlikely unless there is a trade in the works. The Cowboys first pick isn't until the middle of first round at No. 13. It's very doubtful Coryatt's name will be left on the draft board by that time.

That's truly a shame because it seems like Coryatt and the Cowboys would be a perfect match. The Cowboys desperately need a linebacker,

Aggies lumber past SFA

A&M bats lift team to 2-1 win, 12-0 wallop over 'Jacks

After a weekend awakening against the Texas Longhorns, the Texas Aggie batting lineup threatened to fall back into its winter hibernation Tuesday night. Conrad Colby had other ideas.

Colby, who was benched in the Texas series, returned to the lineup and drove in the winning run against Stephen F. Austin to give A&M a 2-1 win in game one of a doubleheader.

The Aggies came back in game two to wallop the Lumberjacks 12-0.

Colby doubled down the left field line in the eighth inning of the first game, bringing in Robert Trimble from second base.

"It was a fastball," Colby said. "I was looking for it. I had a feeling today before the game that I was going to get my chance to play. Sure enough, I got in there in a big situation."

In game two, the Aggies didn't have to rely on any last second heroics. A&M hammered out 10 hits for the easy 12-run margin.

With the two wins, the Aggies improved to 28-15 on the season. SFA fell to 9-30.

A&M right hander James Nix (7-4) got the win in game one, throwing one inning and allowing one run, while SFA right-hander Michael Adamek threw 6 2/3 scoreless innings before Chris Domek lost the game in the eighth.

Aggie right hander Paul Barber (1-0) gave up one hit in three innings of work to win game two.

Colby's game-winning hit came in the bottom of the eighth inning of a game scheduled to go seven. The Lumberjacks had scored a run in their half of the eighth on a passed ball, but A&M responded with three hits to end the game.

Colby said the last inning rally didn't have a big effect on game two.

"We swung the bats really well this weekend against Texas even though we lost two games," he said. "I don't know what happened in the first game. Maybe the guy (Adamek) was just throwing that well, but we got going in the second game."

"I don't think my hit had that much to do with it. We've been hitting well all weekend. I think that carried over."

In game two, A&M sophomore Billy Harlan came off the bench in the second inning and knocked a grand-slam home run over the left-field wall. It was Harlan's only hit of the game and his first

Pitching lifts Lady Aggies past Bobcats

Excellent pitching carried the Texas A&M Lady Aggie softball team to a doubleheader sweep of Southwest Texas State University last night.

The Lady Aggies used back-to-back shutouts to sweep the Bobcats 1-0 and 4-0 at the Lady Aggie Softball Field. The wins improved the team's record to 33-17.

A&M coach Bob Brock was happy to see his team pick up the wins.

"I think we did a really nice job today, especially with the traveling and we didn't work out yesterday," Brock said. "I was glad to see (pitcher Jennifer) Mortensen come back and have a good game. She's been struggling a little bit."

"What you saw tonight is what Dana (Mitchell, pitcher) has been doing. Dana has been throwing real well."

"I was real happy with our pitching."

In the nightcap, pitcher Mitchell threw a one-hitter and the offense ripped out eight hits in the 4-0 win.

After Karen Kalhoefer singled in the first inning, leftfielder Stephanie Schulte doubled to give the Lady Aggies a 1-0 lead.

Sharla Cannon walked to open the second inning and third baseman Rhonda Halbert singled to put runners on first and second.

Lady Aggie catcher Michelle Mayfield doubled to score Cannon and give A&M a 2-0 lead. Stacey Segal blooped a double down the right field line, scoring Halbert and Mayfield to cap the scoring at 4-0.

Mitchell had a no-hitter going until Bobcat designated player Karen Taylor broke it up with a two-out double in the fifth inning.
