Barfield gets three-run homer; Bohannon strug

NEW YORK (AP) - Jesse Barfield, who's had an ugly April, helped the New York Yankees win an ugly game with a big home run.

Barfield hit a three-run homer and drove in four runs Monday night as the Yankees beat the Texas Rangers 8-7 for their fifth win in six games.

Barfield singled in a run in the first off Brian Bohanon and home-red in the fifth off Barry Manuel. He has five hits in 17 at-bats following an 0-for-26 slide. "I've been feeling good for the last four, five games, starting to hit the ball hard," Barfield said. The score was tied 3-3 in the fifth inning when Barfield hit his

It's really amazing how certain things can hit you like a bolt of lightning.

People never really listen to their parents. Everything they say goes in one ear and out the other. But, it seems there comes a time in everyone's life when they have that realization that their parents could have been right.

For me, I've always known my mom was right about almo everything. But with my dad, things were a little different. But with spring here, I was having one of those memories sports gone by, and I finally derstood what he was talking about during those May evenings. When that happer you really want to pick up the phone and let that person know that you finally figured out what they were talking about. But in some cases, that realization comes a little too late in life, and they are no longer there. I miss you dad and thanks for everything. I finally understand why I couldn't give up on those grounders.
