Lady Aggies continue season at UTA tourney

Unbeaten A&M faces Georgia tonight

FROM STAFF AND WIRE REPORTS

Texas A&M head coach Al Givens and his Lady Aggie volleyball team will be taking their show on the road over the weekend to participate in the University of Texas-Arlington Asics Tiger Tournament.

"This tournament will present a tremendous opportunity as well as a challenge, but I feel we will be ready," said Givens.

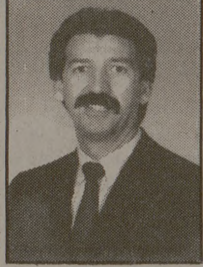

The Lady Aggies' first match will be at 6:00 p.m. today against Georgia, with the final two matches coming on Saturday against Wisconsin at noon and UTA at 8:00 p.m.

A&M got off to a good start for the season after charting a four-game victory over rival Sam Houston State in the opener for both teams on Tuesday.

Sheila Morgan, a junior outside attacker from Houston, led the Aggies to victory with 15 kills, and senior Elizabeth Edmiston added 15 more as A&M hit .245 with 63 kills overall.

The Lady Aggies will face three other quality teams in UTA, the University of Georgia and the University of Wisconsin during the round-robin style tournament.

"We will be seeing some good competition early and will be able to use this tournament as a yardstick," Givens continued, "If we are successful, it sets a tone for the season."

The Badgers of Wisconsin made it to the NCAA region finals in 1991, finishing the season with a 23-10 record.

Three starters return to the UW squad this year, including 6-foot-1 senior middle blocker Arlisa Hagan, who won second team All-Big Ten and All-Mideast honors after the '91 campaign.

A&M and Wisconsin have never played each other before.

UTA finished second in the Southland Conference last season with a 13-18 match record overall, including a loss to the Lady Aggies in five games on Sept. 25.

UTA leads the all-time series against A&M, 25-19.

The Lady Bulldogs of Georgia went to the NCAA playoffs in 1991 as well, posting an impressive 28-8 record for the year.

Georgia enters the season ranked 20th by Volleyball Monthly in their preseason poll.

A&M enjoys a 4-1 match record against the Lady Bulldogs, but the only defeat came in the first round of the 1986 NCAA tournament which was the last time the Lady Aggies played in the postseason.

Givens has a 105-105 match record at A&M since coming from Mississippi in 1986.

The team will return to College Station to play their home opener Monday against Eastern Washington in a 7:00 p.m. match at G. Rolie White Coliseum.

Owners ask Vincent to quit

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

ROSEMONT, Ill. — Baseball owners overwhelmingly asked Fay Vincent to resign Thursday, a move the commissioner immediately rejected.

By an 18-9-1 vote, owners adopted a resolution stating they had no confidence in Vincent, who was elected to a 4 1/2-year term on Sept. 13, 1989.

"We did not discuss what we're going to do if he's not going to resign," said Chicago White Sox owner Jerry Reinsdorf, leading Vincent opponent.

Vincent, who on Aug. 20 sent the owners a letter saying he would never quit, affirmed his decision after the session. He did not attend the meeting, remaining in New York because he said its purpose was unlawful under the Major League Agreement, which governs baseball. It says the commissioner's term can't be shortened and his power can't be diminished.

"I believe strongly that a baseball commissioner should serve a full term as contemplated by the Major League Agreement," said Vincent, whose terms runs through March 31, 1994. "Only then can difficult decisions be made impartially and without fear of political repercussions."

The four-hour special meeting, held at a hotel near Chicago's O'Hare International Airport, by all accounts unfolded calmly. New York Yankees managing general partner Joseph Molloy said Vincent's treatment of Yankees owner George Steinbrenner and pitcher Steve Howe were among the issues discussed. The resolution also made references to labor and television negotiations and franchise stability.

"The sooner he resigns, the better," Philadelphia Phillies owner Bill Giles said.

The resolution, drafted by lawyers for the American and National leagues, was introduced by Douglas Danforth of the Pittsburgh Pirates. The vote was taken by secret ballot, but several owners and officials identified the Baltimore Orioles, Boston Red Sox, Florida Marlins, Houston Astros, Montreal Expos, New York Mets, Oakland Athletics and Texas Rangers as eight teams that spoke against it.

Owners said the vote of the Kansas City Royals was unclear after the remarks by owner Ewing Kauffman, and that Mike Ilitch, who bought the Detroit Tigers last week, did not speak. Most of the owners contacted said they believed the Royals were the ninth team supporting Vincent but were not sure.

Cincinnati Reds owner Marge Schott left the meeting early, and her vote was counted as an abstention. The undecideds as of last week — Colorado, Detroit, San Diego and Seattle — all joined the anti-Vincent group as did Atlanta, which previously said it would support the commissioner.

"The ball is in his court. If it comes back to us, then we'll run with it," said Jackie Autry of the California Angels. "I don't know what this means. The only thing for certain is that 18 people want to get rid of the commissioner."

Toronto Blue Jays president Paul Beeston, elected to preside over the meeting in Vincent's absence, read the resolution during a news conference following the session.
