

- ◆ Exercise Classes
- ◆ Informal Recreation
- ◆ Intramurals
- ◆ Sport Clubs
- ◆ TAMU Outdoors

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 14, 1992 A SERVICE OF THE DEPARTMENT OF RECREATIONAL SPORTS

Monday, Sept. 14

- ◆ Entries Open
- ◆ Badminton Doubles
- ◆ Horseshoe Doubles
- ◆ Triathlon

Tuesday, Sept. 15

- ◆ Entries Close
- ◆ Flag Football
- ◆ Pre-Season Flag Football
- ◆ Pickleball Singles

Wednesday, Sept. 16

- ◆ Pre-Season Flag Football Brackets Posted, 3:00 p.m.
- ◆ Corps Athletic Corporals Flag Football Meeting

Thursday, Sept. 17

- ◆ Flag Football Captain's Meeting at 5:00 p.m.
- ◆ Pre-Season Flag Football Begins at 6:00 p.m.

Friday, Sept. 18

- ◆ Pickleball Singles Brackets Posted, 2:00 p.m.

Monday, Sept. 21

- ◆ Entries Open
- ◆ Golf Doubles
- ◆ Inertube Water Polo
- ◆ Tennis Singles

Tuesday, Sept. 22

- ◆ Entries Close
- ◆ Badminton Doubles
- ◆ Horseshoe Doubles
- ◆ Triathlon

FREE CPR CLASSES!

The Department of Recreational Sports will be offering a free CPR class on Wednesday, September 16 from 6:00 p.m. - 10:00 p.m. Space will be limited. Sign up in 159 Read!

CONGRATULATIONS! The Department of Recreational Sports would like to recognize two of its employees, Tom Reber and Amanda Provazek. Tom, Associate Director of Intramurals, was awarded the Association of Former Students and the Division of Student Services' Outstanding Professional Staff Award. Amanda, Accounting Assistant II, was presented the Outstanding Associate Staff Award. Congrats to both of our outstanding employees!

TAMU OUTDOORS

Trip	Open	Close	Trip Date	Cost
Backpacking the Grand Canyon	NOW	Oct. 2	Nov. 24-29	$392/410*
Windsurfing FUNDamentals	NOW	TODAY	Sept. 19	$18/22*
Rock Climbing Clinic	TODAY	Sept. 28	Oct. 4	$15/18*
Rock Climbing Trip	Sept. 21	Oct. 5	Oct. 9-11	$45/48*
Kayak Roll Clinic	Sept. 28	Oct. 12	Oct. 14	$12/14*
Canoe Trip	Sept. 28	Oct. 12	Oct. 16-18	$35/40*

*This price is for non A&M affiliates.

The Grand Canyon trip is rapidly filling up so sign up today!

THE RECREATIONAL SPORTS DRIVING RANGE

Located west of Olsen Field

	Full Hours	Prices
Mon. - Thurs.	3:00 p.m. - 6:00 p.m.	w/Student w/oStudent
Friday	12:00 p.m. - 6:00 p.m.	or Rec ID or Rec ID
Saturday	11:00 a.m. - 6:00 p.m.	Large Bucket $3.00 $4.00
Sunday*	12:00 p.m. - 6:00 p.m.	Small Bucket $1.60 $2.00

The driving range will stay open until dark if intramural games are scheduled at the ISC. Hours will vary on the day of home football games. For specific hours, please call the Rec Sports Hotline at 845-0737. †On Fridays, buy one bucket and get the second free!

If you read this ad, stop in 159 Read and get a free Rec Sports calendar!

STEP & AEROBIC CLASSES

Time Change

The Mon., Wed., Fri. Step & Aerobic Class time has changed to 12:30 - 1:30. Classes are scheduled to start on September 14.

FOR MORE INFORMATION ON ANY REC SPORTS PROGRAM, PLEASE STOP IN THE REC SPORTS OFFICE, 159 READ OR CALL 845-7826.

THE DEPARTMENT OF RECREATIONAL SPORTS IS IN THE DIVISION OF STUDENT SERVICES.

REC SPORTS HI-LITES IS A CREATION OF JASON C. ROGERS AND JUDY REISING.

Officials discuss campaign limits

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

HOUSTON — City officials are considering a plan to curb campaign spending.

But the plan being considered for Houston, a city known for its extravagant ways, is not exactly a tough diet for local political spendthrifts.

Instead, the proposal is a watered-down version of some of the tough spending reforms adopted in Tucson, Ariz., and other cities.

"The average person thinks we're all for sale," said Houston City Council member Vince Ryan, author of the city proposal. "What I'm trying to do is eradicate the specter of unlimited spending."

But even the milder Houston plan has drawn strident opposition from private interests who are among those most likely to benefit from the liberal spending limits. They include political action committees that contribute generously to some city campaigns.

The proposal which Ryan worked out with Mayor Bob Lanier earlier this spring, places voluntary spending caps at $2.25 million for mayoral races, $475,000 for city controller and at-large council races, and $175,000 for district council races.

Other framers of Houston's finance reform package, including a local branch of the government watchdog group Common Cause, defend the spending limits as a first step in crafting more restrictive guidelines.

"I was told that you can get too low, and get the spending limit so low that it protects incumbents," Rozanne McKinney, a lawyer and Common Cause activist, told the Houston Chronicle.

"The limits now would cut deeply into what was spent on the last mayoral election, for example," she said.

While Lanier spent a record-setting $3 million to win last fall's election, campaign disclosure reports show that council members' spending in the period fell short of their proposed future restriction.

In 1985, Tucson voters set strict limits on what candidates may spend, and approved an optional payment on their municipal utility bill that goes to a city matching fund for campaigns.

Phoenix officials in recent years imposed voluntary spending restrictions in line with average campaign costs, and are now considering going a step further, Rick Naimark, executive assistant to the Phoenix City Council.

Caps must be voluntary under the U.S. Supreme Court has ruled that laws may not restrict the amount of money a candidate may spend seeking office.

But Phoenix City Council is around the prohibition, will consider next month authorizing matching campaign funds for candidates who sign a contract to limit their spending.

In 1989, New York City adopted a voluntary finance reform package that gives limited matching funds to candidates for office who agree to the contribution and spending restrictions.

During Houston council debate of Ryan's plan Wednesday, Councilman John Goodner submitted an alternative package drafted by political action committees that are complaining that Ryan's plan protects incumbents.

Concert noise angers Woodlands residents

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

THE WOODLANDS, Texas — Some residents here are all shook up over rock music reverberating through their homes at night.

It's not a loud stereo, but the outdoor Cynthia Woods Mitchell Pavilion, which has a stage facing two residential sections.

Though the pavilion is in an isolated, non-residential area, it was not designed to abate the sounds from frequent rock concerts, held at night, that ripple into some homes as far as three miles away.

Pavilion officials say they are doing all they can to tone it down, but some residents say they will believe it when they can not hear it.

"We're not trying to shut down the pavilion; we just want them to be considerate of us," Patti Bruxvoort told the Houston Chronicle. "It's not as bad as it used to be, but it's still a problem."

Mrs. Bruxvoort was one of 10 residents who filed a formal complaint after an October 1991 performance by rocker Tom Petty.

Largely because of low cloud cover, the show was so loud that complaint calls flooded the Montgomery County Sheriff's Department switchboard.

Deputies say they are powerless to deal with the complaints, noting that trying to tone down a concert would be like trying to control the noise at the Stadium during a football game. Still, Mrs. Bruxvoort sent a written complaint to Justice of the Peace Ed Connelly.

The county attorney's office declined to accept criminal charges, saying the pavilion did not appear to be violating laws or regulations and suggesting that the complainants consider civil action.

Mrs. Bruxvoort said the residents don't have money for a lawsuit.

The pavilion named in name for the wife of oilman and developer George Mitchell, and the Mitchell put up the money for the project and the corporation provided the land. The pavilion is owned and operated by the non-profit The Woodlands Center for the Performing Arts.

Kirk Metzger, the pavilion's executive director, said the management responded to complaints soon after the facility opened in 1990 by imposing a p.m. curfew on concerts and restricting artists to a maximum sound level of 102 decibels.

Metzger said the pavilion will likely make major improvements, amounting to a total investment of $50,000, before April.

"They'll always say it's the weather or low cloud cover," said resident Pam Meeks.

Corps

Continued from Page 1

Matt Daniel, a senior in the Corps, said the Corps Center is a very positive step.

"It's going to draw a lot more attention to the Corps," he said. "I think these days with the lower numbers it's going to help recruiting."

Look at the Corps and look at our center and look at the traditions and what the Corps means to A&M and I think when an incoming freshman comes and looks at this wall that talks about every year he's going to say "I want to be a part of that."

Bob Drago, Class of 1949, attended the opening ceremonies and said the Corps Center will be an asset to help rebuild the Corps.

"It's something they've needed for a long time," he said. "I think it really personifies the Corps and it will help with recruitment."

Clinton takes break, hopes to debate Bush

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — Bill Clinton plans to show up for a presidential campaign debate in East Lansing, Mich., next week, even though his campaign has "not heard word one" from the Bush camp, a Clinton aide said Sunday.

"I think we're seeing a stonewall on debates from the Republican side," said Clinton's communications director, George Stephanopoulos. "They are trying to delay, they are trying to hold the president back. I don't think they're eager to have him go out there and defend his economic record."

"We have not heard word one from the Republicans,"

Stephanopoulos said.

The president isn't saying whether he will debate Clinton next week, said Bush campaign spokeswoman Torie Clark.

"We just aren't talking about it," she said. "There will be debates and it will all be worked out in due time."

Ms. Clark said Clinton was using the debate to divert attention away from Clinton's draft status during the Vietnam War, which has become a contentious campaign issue.

"They're trying everything possible to get attention off of that," she said. "It is a serious vulnerability."

Clinton, meanwhile, took the family to the movies and attended a church service.

Japanese Aggies?

TAMU-Koriyama Aggies are coming!!

Find out how you can host a visiting Aggie from our Koriyama campus for a weekend!!

Informational Meeting Wednesday, September 16th 7:00 p.m. 302 Rudder Tower

郡山

Sponsored by the TAMU/Koriyama Support Office For more information, contact 845-9423

A+ Tutoring

Time	Mon. 9/14	Tues. 9/15	Wed. 9/16	Thur. 9/17
3 to 5 p.m.	Chem 101 Chp 2	Chem 101 Chp 2&3	Chem 101 Chp 3&4	Chem 101 Test Review
5 to 7 p.m.	Physics 201 Chp 3&4	Physics 201 Chp 4	Physics 201 Chp 5	Physics 201 Test Review
7 to 9 p.m.	Chem 101 Chp 2	Chem 101 Chp 2&3	Chem 101 Chp 3&4	Chem 101 Test Review
9 to 11 p.m.	Chem 101 Chp 2	Chem 101 Chp 2&3	Chem 101 Chp 3&4	Chem 101 Test Review
11 to 1 a.m.	Chem 102 Chp 14	Chem 102 Chp 15	Chem 102 Chp 16	Chem 102 Test Review

	Part I	Part II	Part III	Test Review
Acct 229	M Sep 14 7:00	T Sep 15 7:00	W Sep 16 7:00	R Sep 17 7:00
Acct 230	M Sep 21 7:00	T Sep 22 7:00	W Sep 23 7:00	R Sep 24 7:00
Math 141*	M Sep 14 11:00	W Sep 16 11:00	M Sep 21 11:00	W Sep 23 11:00
Math 142	T Sep 15 11:00	R Sep 17 11:00	T Sep 22 11:00	R Sep 24 11:00
Math 151	T Sep 15 5:00	R Sep 17 5:00	T Sep 22 5:00	R Sep 24 5:00
Math 152/161	M Sep 14 9:00	W Sep 16 9:00	M Sep 21 9:00	W Sep 23 9:00
Math 251/253	T Sep 15 9:00	R Sep 17 9:00	T Sep 22 9:00	R Sep 24 9:00
Math 308	M Sep 14 5:00	W Sep 16 5:00	M Sep 21 5:00	W Sep 23 5:00

*Math 141 Starts at Chapter 7 Math 142 taught by Dave 696-2286 for current info on Arf's classes

All Classes $3.50/Hour For More Information Call 260-2660