Court strikes down abortion law

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NEW ORLEANS— Louisiana's anti-abortion law, which would send offending doctors to prison, was ruled unconstitutional Tuesday by a federal appeals court. The state attorney general was unsure whether he would appeal. U.S. District Judge Adrian Duplantier struck down the law shortly after it was passed last year over the veto of then-Gov. Buddy Roemer. Duplantier said then that Roe vs. Wade, the 1973 U.S. Supreme Court decision that established abortion rights, remained the law of the land. Since then, the Supreme Court upheld some abortion restrictions in Pennsylvania, but refused to strike down Roe vs. Wade.

That paved the way for Tuesday's ruling by a three-judge panel of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, which upheld Duplantier's decision. In its 3-0 ruling, the panel said Louisiana's law is "clearly unconstitutional" in light of the Pennsylvania case. Louisiana Attorney General Richard Ieyoub said the state had 90 days to decide whether to appeal.

The 1991-92 Texas A&M Video Yearbook is here.

If you ordered a 1991-92 AggieVision, stop by the Student Publications office in room 230 Reed McDonald Building between 8:15 a.m. and 4:45 p.m. Monday through Friday to pick up your copy. Please bring student ID. (Video yearbooks will be mailed to the permanent address of students who have not picked up their copy by Friday, October 8, 1992.)

If you did not pre-order a video yearbook, a limited number of copies are now on sale for $29.95 plus tax. Cash, check, Visa or Master Card accepted.

Don't miss out on AggieLand's memories in motion. It's 60 minutes of the places, faces and events of the '91-92 school year in living color and in natural sound or set to the hottest music. Guaranteed to be fun this fall, but imagine what it will look like in 10 or 20 years.
