Tokyo averts nuclear plant meltdown

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

TOKYO— A final defense system was activated to prevent a core meltdown at a nuclear power plant after three cooling pumps failed, causing a dramatic drop in the level of cooling water, officials said Tuesday.

No radiation was released in the emergency shutdown at the plant in Fukushima prefecture, about 70 miles northwest of Tokyo, said Tokyo Electric Power Co., the owner.

The incident was the first shutdown using the emergency core cooling system since Japan's worst nuclear accident at Mihama in February 1991, when a small amount of radioactivity was released into the atmosphere.

Tokyo Electric was initially reluctant to acknowledge that the emergency system had been triggered, prompting sharp questions from local officials.

The cause of the accident at the Fukushima Nuclear Plant was not immediately known and was still under investigation, the company said. It did not say whether the reactor had been damaged.

A spokesman for Tokyo Electric said the plant's No. 1 reactor automatically shut down at 3:31 p.m. Tuesday after three pumps failed — two that condense steam for recycling into the cooling system and another that pushes water into the reactor.

The pump failure caused cooling water level to fall more than 10 feet, triggering the reactor's emergency shutdown.

The water continued to fall, exposing the reactor's fuel rods, said a Tokyo Electric spokesman, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

Brazilians celebrate after leader's impeachment

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil— A day after impeachment, Brazil celebrated the fall of President Fernando Collor de Mello with all the fervor of its famous Carnival, complete with samba bands and street dances.

In Rio de Janeiro, a roar went up at the final congressional vote late Tuesday for the thousands who gathered around an outdoor screen in the downtown theater district.

Many rocked through the night to the strains of the national anthem played to a samba beat by a sound truck.

A crowd of 100,000 sang and chanted on the lawn in front of Congress in Brasilia, the capital, as legislators voted inside. The commemoration began with the Chamber of Deputies' 441-38 vote to oust Collor, and stretched into the wee hours in cities across this country of 150 million.

Prisoners in Rio's Lemos de Brito prison followed the vote on TV. Luiz Henrique Nunes Ferreira, doing 30 years for armed robbery, was quoted as saying about Collor, "Didn't he say when he took office that the corrupt belonged in jail? We're waiting for him."

In Salvador, a major northeastern coastal city, students staged a symbolic funeral for Paulo Cesar Farias, Collor's campaign treasurer who started the corruption scandal that proved to be the president's undoing.

In the northeastern city of Recife, rock-throwing students skirmished with police when they tried to arrest a teenager who rolled himself up in Brazilian flag. A demonstrator was beaten before peace was restored.

In Vitoria, on the southeastern coast, thousands of evangelicals paraded through streets praying for Jesus to enlighten the legislators who voted in the impeachment proceedings. Millions had followed the nationally televised impeachment vote at home or on screen set up in city squares.

National soccer champion Flamengo stopped practice Tuesday so players could watch the vote on TV. In the northeastern coastal city of Fortaleza, fireworks exploded and confetti rained down when it became clear impeachment was inevitable.
