Berkeley man faces summons

'Campus crooner' to appear in court

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

BERKELEY, Calif. — Add one more name to the list of Berkeley characters: Rick Starr, a campus crooner with a song in his heart and a summons in his pocket.

The charge: disturbing the peace.

The problem? His somewhat off-key serenades at the University of California, Berkeley are anything but music to Thomas Ventresco.

The campus administrator has filed a complaint saying the stress of working 50 yards from Starr's lunchtime performances is causing him to lose sleep at night.

That's a review that might have some performers singing the blues, but Starr struck a philosophical note: "You're not going to please everybody."

Starr, 46, contends he is protected by the First Amendment — the campus, after all, was the birthplace of the 1960s Free Speech Movement.

In any case, the bust may turn out to be a boost, Starr said. After pleading innocent last week in Berkeley Municipal Court, he treated court employees and reporters to such Frank Sinatra standards as "Strangers in the Night" and "My Way."
