Earthquake devastates Cairo

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

CAIRO, Egypt— One of the strongest earthquakes to hit Egypt in modern times toppled buildings and houses Monday, killing more than 200 and injuring thousands, the government news agency said.

Children died in stampedes out of swaying schools and rescuers struggled into the night to dig survivors from debris.

The midafternoon quake registered 5.9 on the Richter scale and was centered about 20 miles southwest of Cairo.

People thronged Cairo's streets after the quake. One woman stood on a sidewalk screaming while a knot of people sat in a downtown square, tears streaking down their cheeks.

Thousands of people crowded around the ruins of a 14-story apartment building in the suburb of Heliopolis late Monday while four bulldozers cleared debris under floodlights.

Associated Press reporter Nejlja Sammakia said the 75 apartments collapsed into a heap of crushed concrete and twisted steel.

An ambulance worker said people were pulled alive from rubble before nightfall. There was no word on whether anyone died there.

Fahima Taha Aly Suleiman, resident of Maadi south of Cairo said she saw a schoolgirl, about 14, struck in the head and killed by a rock falling from a collapsed wall.

A crumbling wall in downtown Cairo killed a worker in a kitchen shop.
