Olajuwon lifts Rockets over Mavericks in Mexico

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

MEXICO CITY — Hakeem Olajuwon's layup with 2 seconds left gave the Houston Rockets a 104-102 victory over the Dallas Mavericks Monday night in the first NBA game ever played in Mexico. The game was broadcast to 100 million viewers throughout Latin America in a move by the NBA to gain a wider audience throughout the hemisphere. It attracted a sell-out crowd of over 19,000.

"The NBA has to be in the biggest city (pop. 17 million) in the world," Houston general manager Steve Patterson said. "For the NBA, Mexico is a tremendous market. For that matter, so is all of Latin America."

The scoreboard at Mexico City's concrete Sports Palace conked out just before gametime, leaving coaches and players wondering throughout the game who was winning and how much time was left.

Houston coach Don Cheney

also complained about the wood floor.

Kenny Smith made his first throw with 20 seconds left to make it 102-100 before Mavericks' Rolando Blackman hit a 10-foot jumper at 102 with 13 seconds left.

Olajuwon finished with a game-high 23 points and 10 rebounds. Sleepy Floyd added

Basketball team to hold tryouts

The Texas A&M basketball team will be holding tryouts for walk-on positions on Sunday and Monday.

Anyone who is interested can attend the tryouts, which will be held in G. Rollie White Coliseum from 7:00-8:30 p.m. on both days.

For more information, call the basketball office at 845-4531.

Lady Aggies

Jameyson leads the team in hitting percentage with a .373 average and ranks first in kills per game with an average of 3.2.

As Givens pointed out, Texas' strength lies in the middle of the court. Jameyson and 6-foot-5 middle blocker Samy Duarte ran wild against A&M in their first meeting... something that Givens remembers well.

"They really dominated us in the middle the last time," he said.

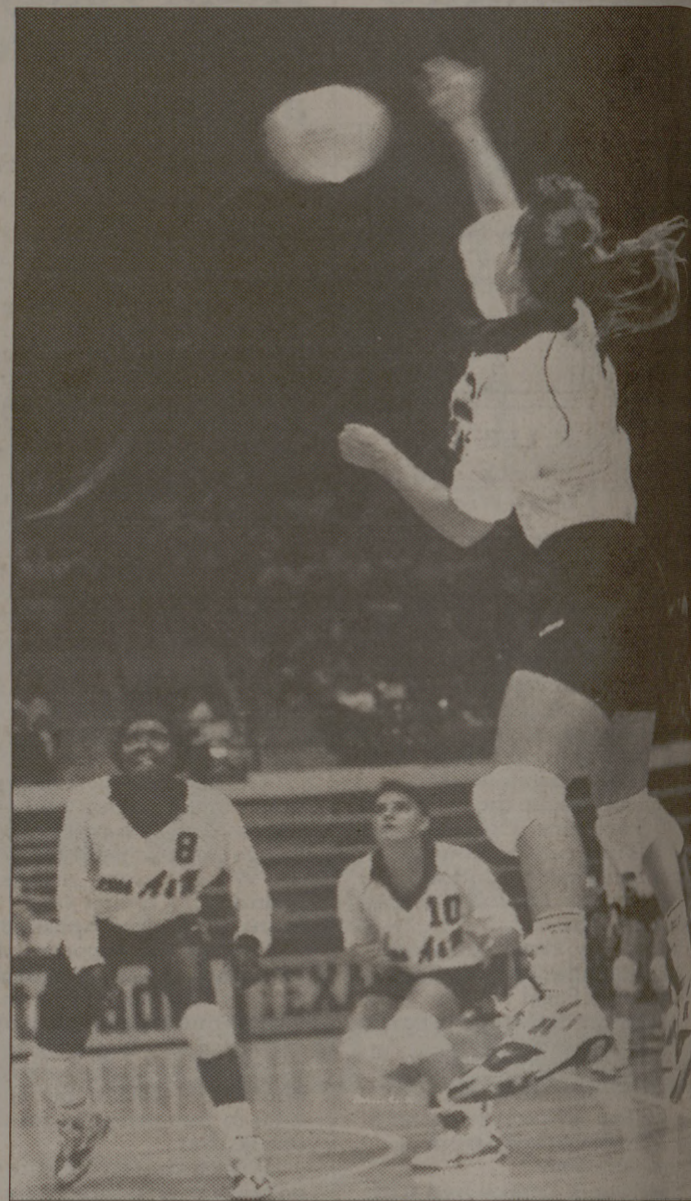

Where the Lady Longhorns truly dominate is at home, where they enjoy the most raucous volleyball crowds in the conference. The 2,075-seat Recreational Sports Center has been a morgue for opposing teams. And Givens is well aware of it.

"I don't think they've ever lost before their home crowd," Givens said. "It's going to be pretty loud and pretty rowdy."

A&M's veterans know full well how rowdy the Texas crowd can be after losing to the Lady Longhorns in three straight games a year ago. Wente said that the experience of those players has influenced the freshmen, who have become fully aware of what lies in store tonight in front of an expected sellout crowd.

In addition to a hostile crowd, the Lady Aggies will also be battling history. Texas owns a 38-10 series edge over A&M, with a 16-3 lead in Austin.

Current Texas head coach Mick Haley has been the driving force behind most of the Lady Longhorns' success against A&M, owning a 30-2 record over his team's biggest rivals since taking over in 1980.

Lady Aggie Elizabeth Edmiston leaps into the air for a spike against Rice. Edmiston leads A&M in kills this season with 241.

Granger

"Each and every day, I have to prove that I'm the starter, and we want to execute whether we run or pass," Granger said. "Coach (Slocum) wants to pass more. We're just not getting it done."

Slocum said that both quarterbacks are not to blame for the offense's sluggishness.

"We're having some good passing opportunities," he said. "We're not as far away as where some people think we need to be."

Slocum added that choosing between being a good running team as opposed to a good passing team was an easy one.

"I don't want to be a good passing team that has difficulty running the ball," he said.

"If I had to take one over the other, I would rather be a running team that has difficulty throwing the ball."

The Aggies take on the Mustangs in the Cotton Bowl in Dallas at 2 p.m. on Saturday.

Davis

name of Doak Walker once rumbled around in the SMU backfield during the late '40s and after having his mug put on some of the most popular publications of the day, including Life magazine, he managed to win a Heisman Trophy.

Walker was such a great running back, in fact, that somebody decided he should have an award named in his honor, and so he does.

The Doak Walker Award is given to the junior or senior running back who best exemplifies greatness on the field, in the classroom and as an upstanding citizen in his community.

Last year's recipient was Rice University's Trevor Cobb, who by all accounts fits the criteria perfectly.

But Walker was not the only great running back on the Hilltop.

Kyle Rote nearly made everyone forget about Walker, and the SWC shook in terror as the two Mustang runners thundered to more victories and two consecutive conference championships, in '47 and '48.

But Rote and Walker may not be the best two running backs to be in the same SMU backfield, because the 1982 team had two of the greatest running backs in conference history.

Eric Dickerson and Craig James were part of coach Bobby Collins' famed "Pony Express" that from 1979 to 1982 posted 8,192 yards rushing and 70 touchdowns.

The two members of the "Pony Express" were the most highly-recruited running backs in the state after their senior year in high school, and they chose to go to SMU together after Collins promised each of them that they would get the carries they wanted.

Collins didn't lie. Both Dickerson and James were All-SWC in '80, '81 and '82 and went on to professional careers.

Dickerson is becoming a sure Hall of Famer, first with the Rams, then the Colts and now the Raiders, while James had a promising career with the Patriots halted by a debilitating shoulder injury.

After Dickerson and James left the Hilltop, two new running backs who were as highly recruited stepped in to produce "Pony Express II".

Reggie Dupard and Jeff Akers finished their careers as the second and fourth-ranked rushers all-time at SMU. The other two men in the top four are, of course, Dickerson and James.

It is a testament to the quality of SMU football that the only Mustang to ever win a Heisman Trophy for his school is ninth on the list.

No, the Mustangs probably can't beat the A&M on Saturday, in fact they are 25-point underdogs.

But if this game was being played on history, SMU would give the Aggies nothing.

AN OVERWHELMING ENDORSEMENT?...NOT!

The Democratic opponent of Sheriff Ron Miller claims to have an "overwhelming" endorsement of local law enforcement.

THE FACT IS he has only 29% of the total possible law enforcement and criminal justice employees--182 names were on his "resounding" endorsement list out of a total 620 possible names.

29% IS HARDLY AN "OVERWHELMING" ENDORSEMENT!

"We don't need y'all nohow!
We don't count on the student vote anyway!"

-This is a direct quote from Bob Bell, the campaign manager of Democrat Bobby Riggs for Sheriff, at a local candidates dinner on October 10, 1992.

Is this the kind of Sheriff's office that would look after the students needs and respect Texas A&M University as an important part of the community?

WE DEMAND RESPECT from our local officials whether they want our vote or not.

THE FACT IS the Brazos County Sheriff's Department shares a close relationship with state & local agencies to ensure the success of many of the Sheriff's programs

Ron Miller cares about the student needs and is involved with several student and community organizations.

* Ron Miller has the supervisory experience of overseeing 122 officers and staff with a $4.1 million annual budget.
...his opponent has 14 officers and two clerks with no budgetary experience.

* Ron Miller has 8 years experience in jail management (70% of the Sheriff's job responsibility).
...his opponent has none at all.

* Ron Miller has not only an advanced certificate with the Texas Commission on Law Enforcement but also a Jailer License and Associate Arts Degree in Law Enforcement from Blinn Jr. College.
...his opponent has an advanced certificate.

* Ron Miller has successfully implemented 27 new programs at no cost to taxpayers by using volunteers or grants. Sheriff Miller also implemented the Brazos County Boot Camp program for inmates--one of only four in the state.
...his opponent has created none at all.

* Ron Miller also has 8 years lobbying experience for Brazos County. This is crucial for the new laws that concern the Texas Jail Commission.
...his opponent has none at all.

The choice is clear. We need to keep Ron Miller as our Sheriff. He has the job experience and professional attitude to lead the Brazos County Sheriff's Department into the crucial years ahead.
