Floyd leads Rockets to 99-92 victory

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

HOUSTON — Reserve Sleepy Floyd scored 28 points, including nine of the last 11, pacing Houston's 99-92 victory over the Cleveland Cavaliers on Thursday night.

Hakeem Olajuwon also had 28 points, along with 20 rebounds and five assists, as the Rockets won their fourth consecutive game and Cleveland lost its fourth straight game.

Cleveland's John Battle reduced the Cavs' deficit from eight points to two on a pair of jump shots, making it 92-90 with 1:30 left. Then Floyd took over.

The score was tied twice in the fourth period before Winston Garland, like Floyd a backup guard, stole a pass and tossed it to another reserve, Scott Brooks, who hit a 3-pointer with 6:04 left for an 80-77 lead. Brooks finished with nine assists and nine points.

Spurs win their 7th straight over Mavericks

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

SAN ANTONIO — Sean Elliott scored 26 points and David Robinson added 19 as San Antonio cruised past the Dallas Mavericks 123-95 Thursday night, the seventh consecutive Spurs victory in the rivalry.

Vinny Del Negro added 16 points for the Spurs, who shot a season-high 53 percent from the field.

Derek Harper's 24 points paced the Mavericks, while Terry Davis added 17. Dallas made only 41 percent of its field goal attempts.

The victory gave San Antonio a 3-2 record to conclude a five-game homestand. The Spurs play seven of their next eight on the road.

Dallas trailed 80-65 with 3:57 to play in the third period when San Antonio used a 13-1 run to go up by 27. Elliott scored six points during the run, which left the Mavericks in a 93-66 hole.

San Antonio's lead peaked at 31 with 7:08 to go in the game, William Bedford's jumper making it 107-76.

Elliott had 14 first-half points as the Spurs grabbed their initial half-time lead of the season, 62-49. Only 17 first-half points from Harper kept the Mavericks, who trailed by as many as 19 in the second quarter, in the game.

"It was sure nice to win an easy one," San Antonio coach Jerry Tarkanian said. "I was happy tonight. We got to rest a lot of people and still won pretty good. I realize Dallas is not a very good team right now."

The Spurs won the rebounding battle 52-35 and went to the foul line 39 times, 20 more than Dallas. "Tough night," said Dallas coach Richie Adubato. "They were hot. They have great shooters. They had been cold. They really shot well tonight. The road is a cold place."

Now 0-3 on the road, Dallas has posted its two most lopsided defeats back-to-back away from home. Tuesday, the Mavs lost 23 at Charlotte. The final margin was 28 Thursday.

"We tried to get them out of their offense, but we're in a tough situation. We have to scramble," Harper said. "It's tough to play against a team that runs at you constantly."

Lady Aggies open SWC tourney tonight

FROM STAFF AND WIRE REPORTS

The Texas A&M volleyball team will get a chance to avenge a loss in its final home match of the season tonight when they play Baylor tonight at 7:30 in the first round of the Southwest Conference Tournament in Austin.

In their last meeting, Baylor, who is 21-14 overall and 3-7 in the SWC, beat the Lady Aggies in four games on Nov. 11. That match was the Lady Bears' first win against A&M in the last 11 conference meetings between the two. It also marked the first-ever Baylor win in G. Rollie White Coliseum.

The toughest challenge tonight for A&M, who is 3-7 in conference play and 15-13 overall, will come in stopping hitter Heather Williams, who ranks among SWC leaders in kill average with a 3.81 mark. Williams led Baylor with 25 kills in their last match with A&M.

Baylor setter/hitter Cory Siverston had 72 assists in the last Baylor-A&M matchup, adding 11 kills. She leads the Lady Bears with a .359 hitting percentage.

As a team, Baylor enters the tournament with a .227 hitting percentage and is averaging 13.2 kills, 15.2 digs and three blocks per game.

The Lady Aggies, who finished fourth or tied for fourth in the SWC for the fourth straight year, carry a .164 hitting percentage into tonight's match, but they are hitting only .129 against conference opponents.

Senior and leading scorer Elizabeth Edmiston is winding down her last season at A&M with a bang as she is among SWC leaders in three individual categories overall, as well as two more in conference play. She presently leads the Lady Aggies with a 3.23 kill average, and is second in dig and ace average and hitting percentage.

But while the SWC Tourney marks the close of one career, it will also feature A&M's top youngster, setter Suzy Wente.

Wente, whose 703 assists places her sixth in the A&M career record books and is the most ever for an A&M freshman, is currently sixth in the SWC in assists per game. She is also third on the team in dig average, with a 2.3 mark overall and 2.5 in the SWC.

The winner of the A&M-Baylor match will play host team the University of Texas at 7:30 p.m. Saturday. The championship match will be played at 4 p.m. Sunday, with the winner receiving an automatic bid to the NCAA Tournament.

The Lady Aggies' final matches of the season will come next weekend, when they play in the Alburquerque Tournament in Albuquerque, N.M. A&M faces host New Mexico Nov. 27 at 8 p.m., and will take on Colorado State at 6 p.m. Nov. 28.

A&M women's basketball plays exhibition tonight

The Lady Aggie basketball team opens its season with an exhibition game against the Houston Hopefuls on Saturday at 7 p.m. in G. Rollie White Coliseum.

A&M finished last season with a 15-13 record and a 7-7 mark in Southwest Conference play.

Admission to the game is with a ticket stub from the Texas Christian-A&M football game earlier in the day at Kyle Field.

The Lady Aggies open their regular season on Dec. 1 against Oklahoma State in Stillwater, Okla.

Frogs

"When you watch them over the last three weeks, plus the significance of playing for a share of the conference championship and playing home, if they beat us, it would be because we're overlooking them," Sloum said.

TCU quarterback Leon Clay will play the last game of his career Saturday. He was taken out of last week's game against Texas because of a hip injury, but Sloum said that Clay should be in action this weekend.

If a blowout is what the Aggies need to earn respect in the poll, historically speaking, the Frogs are the team to provide them with one. Over the last seven meetings in the series, A&M has outscored TCU, 331-64. Only once in that time did the Frogs score more than 10 points.

The Aggies have won their last 19 regular season games and their last 14 games at Kyle Field. A&M's winning streak in SWC games stands at 13 games.

Ellisor concurred with Frazier and added that the game will be an emotional high.

"Playing in front of the 12th Man for the last time will bring up a lot of emotions," Ellisor said. "There will be plenty of emotion to go along with the nostalgia, but I will miss the crowd support."

As with any final appearance, a favorite memory or play will come to mind that stands out above the rest.

"My favorite play at Kyle Field happened during my freshman year," Frazier said. "We were playing Texas, and I ran down Winfred Tubbs from behind. He was playing running back then.

"Maybe that pushed the Longhorn coaches to push him over to his present position of line-backer."

Carter's recollection was twofold.

"Personally, when we played against Rice this year, and I caught that tipped ball from the defensive back," Carter said. "That was nice. But I will never forget when Aaron Wallace hit Houston's Andre Ware (in 1989) and held up Ware's helmet in the middle of the field."

"That was a big-time play."

Buckley's most exciting moment on Kyle Field was in 1990 against Southwestern Louisiana.

"I registered my first sack against them," Buckley said. "That was a great thrill and one that I won't soon forget."

A&M head coach R.C. Sloum said he can't believe how fast the time has passed, and he will not forget the nine seniors.

"This always a special time," Sloum said. "It seems like just yesterday Marcus was a freshman in here. You look at those guys and see how quick they come and go."

"It is a sad time not only for the players but also for the coaches. These seniors have been solid players for us and provided us with leadership."

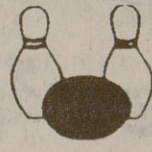

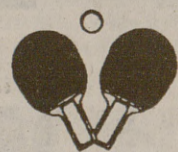

"That is all you can ask from anybody."
