Businesses make haste cashing in on Clinton

WASHINGTON — The Willard Hotel, just two blocks from the White House, wasted no time in cashing in on its new neighbor. It started serving bottled water from Arkansas the day after Bill Clinton's election.

Two days later, Dominique's French restaurant announced with the words "Bon Appetit, Y'all!" that it would add catfish and chicken-fried steak to its menu — entrees it labeled "Clinton Cuisine."

In small ways and big, Washington businesses are looking to capitalize on Clinton and to associate their names with the new administration. Some are trying out hokey down-home promotions. Others are offering expert advice.

"We want to make everyone from Arkansas feel at home," said one of Dominique's owners, Herb Ezrin, who insisted catfish wasn't out of place on a menu featuring rack of lamb and "Lobster Champagne."

"We sold out of it when Clinton was in town last week," Ezrin said.

The Clinton transition office in Little Rock isn't being flooded only with resumes.

It's also gotten plenty of mail from Washington real estate agents, eager to be chosen. They're sending their brochures, listings and promotional key chains, aides say.

Soon after the election, the job placement company, EnterChange Inc., offered itself as an authority on the transition.

It took Galileo 16 years to master the universe. You have one night.

It seems unfair. The genius had all that time. While you have a few short hours to learn your sun spots from your satellites before the dreaded astronomy exam.

On the other hand, Vivarin gives you the definite advantage. It helps keep you awake and mentally alert for hours. Safely and conveniently. So even when the subject matter's dull, your mind will stay razor sharp.

If Galileo had used Vivarin, maybe he could have mastered the solar system faster, too.
