Kasay kicks game-tying and game-winning points Seahawks edge past Broncos in overtime

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

SEATTLE — John Kasay, whose extra point tied the game after regulation time expired, kicked a 33-yard field goal with 3:56 left in overtime to give the Seattle Seahawks an improbable 16-13 victory over the Denver Broncos on Monday night.

Seattle (2-10) trailed 10-0 after one quarter and 13-3 well into the final quarter, but tied it after Kasay kicked a 33-yard field goal with 5:20 left and Stan Gelbaugh hit Brian Blades on the final play of regulation. Kasay's kick sent the game into overtime.

Kasay missed a 33-yard field goal 4:47 into the extra period, hooking the kick wide to the right, but got a second chance after Gelbaugh drove the Seahawks from Denver's 38 to the 14, helped by a pair of penalties against the Broncos, including an illegal contact call that negated an interception.

Seattle got a last chance in regulation when Chris Warren returned a punt to the Denver 45 and Victor Jones drew a 15-yard penalty for grabbing his facemask, putting the ball at the 30 with 1:02 remaining.

With second-and-goal at the 10, the Seahawks were called for holding, but Gelbaugh hit tight end James Jones for 17 yards on third down, then found Blades for only the eighth touchdown the Seahawks have scored all season.

Denver (7-5), playing without starting quarterback John Elway for the second straight week, fell into a tie for second place in the AFC West with San Diego, one game behind Kansas City.

Before the late surge, it appeared the Broncos would coast to victory behind rookie Tommy Maddox's first NFL touchdown pass and two field goals by David Treadwell.

Maddox, a first-round draft choice from UCLA who passed up his final two years of college eligibility, subbed for Elway for the second straight game. He gave the Broncos a quick lead with a 6-yard scoring pass to Mark Jackson 4:19 into the game and Treadwell added a 28-yard field goal just over five minutes later.

Elway was made inactive just before the game because of a sore right shoulder. Maddox quarterbacked Denver in a 24-0 loss to the Raiders in Los Angeles last week in his first pro start.

Denver made it 13-3 with 5:26 left in the third quarter on Treadwell's second field goal, a 36-yarder that was set up by Wymon Henderson's interception and 33-yard runback to the Seattle 20.

Seattle's starting quarterback Kelly Stouffer threw two interceptions and lost a fumble, giving him eight turnovers in his past two games. The Seahawks replaced Stouffer with Gelbaugh with 9:27 left, and he gave the offense a spark.

Gelbaugh got the Seahawks inside the 20, but Doug Thomas dropped an 18-yard pass in the end zone with 6:09 left, forcing Seattle to settle for Kasay's 33-yard field goal that cut the deficit to seven points.

Gelbaugh finished 12 for 21 for 164 yards and one TD. Maddox wound up 11 for 26 for 127 yards with one touchdown and two interceptions.

Maddox's TD pass was set up by Tyrone Braxton's 40-yard interception return to the Seattle 9. On third down, Maddox found Jackson, who managed to keep both feet inbounds for the score.

Denver went 52 yards in eight plays to position Treadwell for his first field goal.

The Seahawks finally scored after forcing the Broncos to punt from the back of their end zone near the end of the first half.

Reedy hires assistants at Baylor

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WACO — Chuck Reedy, incoming new head football coach at Baylor, has announced the hiring of three new assistants — Ken Rucker from Arkansas, Ron West from Southwestern Louisiana and Chris Lancaster from Clemson.

Rucker and West will go to work recruiting immediately for Baylor, and Lancaster will come aboard on Jan. 1, Reedy said. Rucker will coach running backs, and West will coach offensive linemen or linebackers, Reedy said.

The three will join Pete Freudenburg and Robert James on the Baylor coaching staff. Freudenburg was retained from the current staff of Grant Teaff as defensive coordinator and assistant head coach, and James remains as defensive ends coach.

Teaff will become fulltime athletic director after coaching the Bears in a bowl game, probably the John Hancock Bowl in El Paso on Dec. 31.

Guzman still not close to signing with Rangers

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

ARLINGTON, Texas — Texas Rangers pitcher Jose Guzman said Monday he would prefer to remain with the club, but said he and the club aren't close on a new contract.

The Rangers and agent Barry Meister exchanged proposals on Sunday, and club president Tom Schieffer said "our numbers did not match."

Guzman said he hopes to decide by midweek where he'll play next season.

Several teams have offered Guzman four-year deals worth between $13 million and $15 million, but the Rangers apparently don't want to go beyond a three-year, $9 million pact.

Guzman said a fourth year on the contract is important to him.

"If they don't, it's see you later," Guzman said.

The Houston Astros and the Chicago Cubs are the leading contenders if Guzman spurns the Rangers' offer. The Seattle Mariners also have been courting Guzman.

Schieffer said the Rangers' proposal guarantees three years of the contract with a club option for the fourth year.

"We gave them a number. It was a generous offer. Whether it's enough, I don't know. Now it's up to Jose to decide what he wants," Schieffer said.

Guzman, who has won 29 games for the Rangers over the past two seasons, spent Monday with his wife and small child at their home in nearby Colleyville.

The Rangers could have signed Guzman at the All-Star break for three years at $8.1 million, plus a club option for a fourth year, but instead offered $7 million. The Rangers still thought in late August they could sign Guzman and decided against trading him to a pennant contender.

Once the trading deadline passed, Meister raised the asking price to more than $9 million.

Lady Aggies

Givens seemed to be quietly enjoying the fruits of his labor, knowing that the mountainous slate of matches he set up for his young team would be important in his first trip to postseason play since 1986.

"We really didn't duck anybody," Givens said. "I think people who know volleyball recognized the competition we played against."

As for the competition facing A&M this weekend, the jury is still out. The Lady Aggies do know that physical fitness will be a key as they face four opponents in two days.

The NIVC consists of four five-team pools, with A&M placed in Pool B. They tip things off at 2 p.m. on Dec. 4 against Loyola (Chicago), then play Minnesota at 7 p.m. The Lady Aggies wake up to Maryland the next day, who they play at 11:30 a.m. They close out play in their pool at 3:30 p.m. that day against Sacramento State.

If the Lady Aggies win their pool, the road ahead gets no easier. They would then have to win two matches on Dec. 6 to earn a tournament championship.

The possibility of playing six matches in three days cannot appeal to the faint of heart. But it sounds like the Lady Aggies are made of stronger stuff than that.

"It (the tourney schedule) doesn't worry me at all, because I think our team is one of the most highly conditioned around," Wood said.

Edmiston was a little more cautious when asked if the Pool B slate would be more than she could handle physically.

"I hope not," Edmiston said. "I'll play as hard as I can for as long as I can."

Givens said that the fitness factor was not a problem, as his team has four months of hard practice behind it. He did say that the key will be desire, and whether or not the Lady Aggies have it.

"I think the schedule suits our team," Givens said. "We have a blue-collar work ethic. I think our players will rally behind that."

"I want this, more than anything, for our players and our program. I hope the players want it just as much for themselves, the University and the program."

Norwood

means nothing if he does not win every game. How else could you explain the unceremonious dumping of Majors, who nearly lost his life trying to live up to the lofty standards he set at his alma mater?

When the Volunteers jumped out to a hot start under assistant Phillip Fulmer while Majors recuperated from multiple-bypass surgery, the handwriting was quietly applied to the wall. What it finally said last week was that a final record of 8-3 and a berth in the Hall of Fame Bowl won't quite cut it. So long, Johnny.

Bruce doesn't have it much better. He was fired last week amid rumors of verbal and physical abuse of his players, with the CSU administration refusing to pay the last two years of his contract. Never mind that his players have actively voiced their support for Bruce and their disdain for his firing.

As in so many other instances, the voices of the CSU players have gone unheard. And Bruce, who was canned by Ohio State in the late 80s after performing his job with all the skill of legendary predecessor Woody Hayes, is the victim of his second unjustified dismissal. Farewell, Earle.

The curious case of Kines typifies why so many Arkansas alums are furious with athletic director Frank Broyles. Broyles admits he made a mistake in hiring Jack Crowe after Ken Hatfield left for Clemson, but that failed to sweeten the bad taste in the mouths of Razorback-ers when Crowe was fired after Arkansas' season-opening loss to The Citadel.

But Kines performed admirably as an interim, and was loved by the Arkansas players. Alas, we already how much weight they carry. Toadies, Joe.

More importantly for Broyles, Kines was a favorite of many boosters. If Broyles does not know how important their say is, he's in the wrong line of work.

Perhaps Broyles' choice of Danny Ford to replace Kines speaks volumes of the win-at-all-costs attitude. Ford is a winner, having earned a national championship during his successful reign at Clemson. But Ford, like Auburn's Dye, resigned under the weight of NCAA scrutiny. If you think that the NCAA has forgotten about that, you don't know them very well.

Come to think of it, we might not know anyone involved with college football very well next year. If the turnover rate we have seen throughout the past week keeps up, no head coaching job in Division I is safe.
