... Texas A&M must be two things, first a leader and second a good representative. These qualities take experience if the student body president of Texas A&M has had these qualities within the last four years which have enabled me to understand the importance of setting goals, planning, organizing and delegating necessary tasks to others. I have a great amount of experience in representing Texas A&M. Within the last four years I have been a member of the Ross Volunteer Company, a member of the Corps Staff, and a member of the Texas A&M Student Body. I have traveled to many parts of the nation and state, I have talked to old Ags, new Ags, and people from all over the world about all Texas A&M has to offer. I have had a lot of experience in both of these areas.

I have had four memorable years full of many experiences. All I want is one more year to do what I have done for me and the best student body president Texas A&M has ever had.

I want to be someone who is willing to step up and get something done, someone who is running for the office. I want to be someone who is willing to direct the changes people want to see and increasing student participation in the important jobs of a student body president. I want to be someone who is willing to move forward, a person who is willing to lead, a person who is willing to find common ground. I want to be someone who is willing to change, a person who is willing to change the old and a two-year Fish Camp counselor, Taylor said change could be a good thing and not have to affect its traditions.

I want to be someone who is willing to solve the student's problems and not fix what isn't broken," he said. I want to be someone who is willing to deal with the most important issues facing the campus. Every group has a role to play, although not necessarily through a forced three-hour class, but through a special branch of the Student Government, student leaders can implement change.

I want to be someone who is willing to expect something if you don't do it yourself," Taylor said. I want to be someone who is willing to accept name changes in the Texas A&M System and requests by other organizations, Taylor said a president needs to defend the selectiveness of the system and speak for the school.

I want to be someone who is willing to be wary about messing with the wrong people," he said. I want to be someone who is willing to recruit and recruiting officer for the Corps Staff.

-Jason Cox

I want to be someone who is willing to try to tell you what they will do, make them tell you what they will do, make them tell you what they will do.

I want to be someone who is willing to be successful in addressing many other issues directly affecting you. I want to be someone who is willing to be the most qualified candidate:

- Dr. Mobley's Speakers Bureau
- Yell Leader Advisory Board
- Judicial Board Assistant Chair
- Fish Camp Counselor

I want to be someone who is willing to address these issues and concerns:

- multicultural awareness & sensitivity
- Texas A&M University System name changes
- extra reading days
- orientation, and State Legislature

I want to be someone who is willing to be president with the experience and the initiative to produce changes that affect our campus. Through effective communication and responsible action, I want to be someone who is willing to be a part of decisions made at all levels which affect you, the student body president.

I want to be someone who is willing to make Student Government work for all students by making them aware of multicultural issues. The off-campus phase of the program is aimed at preventing future incidences of multiculturalism. I want to be someone who is willing to be a part of the on-campus phase of this plan is aimed at preventing future incidences of multiculturalism.

-Gina Howard

Senior yell leader

Five students will become yell leaders for the 1993-1994 school year, Thursday at midnight, barring a run-off election. The yell leaders are responsible for raising and maintaining Aggie spirit at sport events, yell practices, Fish Camp and summer conferences. The yell leaders also travel all over the state promoting Texas A&M and its traditions.

The student body elects two junior and three senior yell leaders each spring. The elections are open to any student in their second or third year at A&M who has a minimum 2.3 GPA.

#1 Ric Gonzalez

Howdy, My name is Ricardo "Ric" Gonzalez, a junior political science major from San Benito (the last McDonald's before South Padre Island) and candidate #1 for senior yell leader.

I want to be your senior yell leader because I am ready to Activate, Rejuvenate, Motivate and Yellate the hell outta KYLE FIELD. I'm ready to lead and represent the heart, soul and spirit of AGGIELAND, the Fightin' Texas Aggie Twelfth Man at all athletic and special events.

I feel I am the best qualified to be a senior yell leader due to the leadership, personable, and motivational characteristics gained through my involvement in T-Camp, Howdy Camp, Student Government, MSC Student Programs and Student Activities.

Finally, I want to be your senior yell leader to have the opportunity to continue to unite and link this diverse and 'world class' university to become the model university for the entire world.

In closing, I would like to challenge the Student Body to two things: (1) GO out and VOTE!!! and (2) continue to keep Texas A&M the friendliest campus in the world.

#2 Mike Healy

Excitement, that's right, excitement. This is what the senior yell leader position calls for, and this is what Mike Healy will deliver.

Right now, I want you to think about something that excites you, be it a brunette, blonde, or red head, be it that special day you were accepted to Texas A&M or that day you received a bid from your fraternity or sorority, or maybe the day the Cowboys won it all. I want you to get excited. That's my job.

When I need excitement I think about Aggie Bonfire, Elephant Walk, Muster or the Big Event.

This campaign has been a real eye-opener. I have never been this proud of my fellow Ags. I have met a lot of great people and will love to see them at the polls.

I want to be your yell leader. That means that I am here for you to call upon; to come to your individual meetings to get y'all excited. I have a responsibility to the Aggie athletes and to the Twelfth Man and will execute this job to the best of my abilities. Remember every vote is important, proof of not enough good Ags voting is now seen in the Oval Office.

So Ags, remember me, Mike Healy, when you go to vote. Remember #2 on the ballot. Remember that Aggies never lose, they just might not be ahead when the time runs out.

God Bless. Gig 'Em.

#3 Bryan Bullington

My name is Bryan Bullington. I'm a junior environmental design major from Dallas and a member of the Fighting Texas Aggie Corps.

I'm running for the office of senior yell leader.

Being a yell leader encompasses many aspects of leadership. I believe that being a yell leader is one of the highest honors that can be bestowed upon an individual.

Yell leader involves so much more than being down on the track at football games. It involves being committed to spreading the pride and spirit of Texas A&M to all facets of the University. Whether it be at Fish

Camp, Aggie Mom's Clubs, or student groups on campus, I want the opportunity to represent Texas A&M as an ambassador.

I feel that being a leader is the most important characteristic of a yell leader. Both on and off the field, I will exude characteristics of high moral standards and integrity.

It is my hope that as students and alumni look down on the track they can be proud of the people that represent the school they hold dear to their heart.

I commit to being a person that Aggies can be proud of by allowing my spirit, heart, and soul to shine as I share the definition of Aggieland to those from every walk of life.

#4 Steve Scanlon

Howdy Ags, My name is Steve Scanlon, a political science major from San Antonio.

This year I'm running for re-election to senior yell leader.

Being a yell leader, as a junior, gave me the chance to represent something far beyond what most could comprehend and that is Aggie Spirit.

This year I hope I am able to re-install this Aggie Spirit within the Twelfth Man and help return the Fightin' Texas Aggies to the Cotton Bowl.

The position of yell leader carries with it a great sense of pride and love for Texas A&M.

Football games are only a taste of what being a yell leader is all about. From orientation programs, Fish Camps, numerous mothers' clubs across the state to the volleyball and basketball games during the spring, I have had a fantastic opportunity to show others what we all feel here at Texas A&M.

Furthermore, I can't explain what being a junior yell leader has meant to me, and come March 31st and April 1st, I hope you will, again, give me the chance to represent you as your senior yell leader.

Remember Steve Scanlon, #4 on the ballot for senior yell leader.

#5 Chris Kelly

Howdy Ags, My name is Chris Kelly and I am a junior psychology major from Dallas.

Senior yell leader is a position of leadership, dedication and tradition. I believe I would be an effective leader who is dedicated to upholding the traditions of Texas A&M. I am willing to work hard and accept the responsibilities and commitment.

As the last of six brothers and sisters to attend A&M, I know that being an Aggie is special, and I would be honored to represent the best university in the country as a senior yell leader.

I hope to raise support for men's and women's athletics, bonfire, and all other student activities that carry on Aggie traditions.

My goal is to let everyone know how great Aggieland is by leading the Spirited Fighting Texas Aggie Twelfth Man. So let's get fired up Ags!

God Bless and Gig 'Em.

#6 Mark Rollins

Howdy Aggies! My name is Mark Rollins, a junior civil engineering major from Arlington, and I am running for re-election to senior yell leader.

This past year I was privileged to serve the Fightin' Texas Aggie Twelfth Man as a junior yell leader. With your support I will carry on the traditions of a Yell Leader, and together we can take the Aggie football team back to the Cotton Bowl for a victory on January 1.

However, being a yell leader is much more than simply representing A&M at football games. A yell leader speaks at new student conferences, Fish Camps, yell practices, mothers' clubs, elementary schools, summer camps, and numerous other events across the state and nation. A yell leader also leads the Twelfth Man at various other sporting events such as volleyball, softball and basketball.

This university has given me much through organizations such as Class Council, Student Government, Fish Camp, the MSC, and the Corps of Cadets. To continue to contribute to the University through the position of senior yell leader would be a dream come true.

Remember that you have a voice in who should lead the Twelfth Man next year with spirit, dedication and motivation. If re-elected I will do just that.

REMEMBER-"ROLL WITH ROLLINS" on election day. Gig 'Em.

#8 Jesse Mills

HOWDY AGS! My name is Jesse Mills and my campaign slogan is "The Steer Stops Here!"

I'm a junior business major from Frost and I'm a member of the Class of '94 Council, T-Camp 1993, Financial Service Organization, and the Pre-Law Society.

I bleed maroon blood. I've wanted to attend Texas A&M since I was first told about the school when I was six years old.

After my first visit, when I was a freshman in high school, I knew I'd always be an Aggie. I met the yell leaders during that visit, and I decided then that I would run for yell leader when I arrived here.

It took three scholarships and working two jobs to get here and that makes me love and appreciate Texas A&M even more.

Texas A&M has unity and spirit that no other school has.

I want to be more than just a part of that spirit, I want to be a leader of it. I believe in A&M and will always stand by it, during the good times and especially the bad.

I'm a non-reg who wants to represent the Spirit of the Twelfth Man for all Aggies, but I want to especially represent the 38,000 non-reg students.

Come see me in action at the yell leader forum at 6:30 Tuesday night in the MSC Flagroom.

Be ready to rock the house and bounce off the walls! Remember Ags, your Aggie Spirit is the reason why - "The Steer Stops Here."

#9 Greg Riels

Howdy, my name is Greg Riels and I am running for senior yell leader.

I am a finance major from Kingwood, and a member of Company E-2 in the Corps of Cadets.

When I came here in the summer before my freshman year, I knew nothing about this school and even less about its traditions. I was going into the Corps, and I had heard rumors that my freshman year was going to be just loads of fun - on top of that, I wasn't real big on "humping it" in front of my parents in Rudder.

I could never see myself in a go-rilla costume telling people where to park for Fish Camp.

I was not too thrilled to be in Aggieland. But now I am, and more than I can explain. You see, I was fortunate to meet people who taught me what it meant to be a true Aggie. Whether I got to know them through the Corps, Student Government, Muster, traveling with Rev, or Fish Camp, they all taught me that people are what is most important and what makes this place so very special. That is why I want to be Yell Leader - to give something back to the student body who has given me so much.

I want to make that Aggie spirit grow within you, and encourage you to show it off. A great deal of that takes place on Kyle Field and in G. Rollie White, but it's much more - it's about setting the example of being an Aggie and exemplifying Aggie spirit.

I would be honored to be your senior yell leader and continue the legacy we are living.
