

The Battalion

Page 2

Ghana dance troupe performs

Meriga Salufi Abudakri and Patience Sewor perform at the Brown Bag concert in Rudder Exhibit Hall Wednesday. As members of the National Dance troupe of Ghana, they are VARNELL HOPKINS III performing a musical song and dance symbolic of how people should see God through their heart rather than their eyes. The MSC Jordan Institute for International Awareness sponsored the event.

Campus News Briefs

State Farm offers new scholarship

State Farm Insurance Cos. has awarded $30,000 to Texas A&M University to fund scholarships for minority and female undergraduates pursuing studies related to the insurance industry.

The scholarships will be designated as the State Farm Distinguished Achievement Awards and will be administered by the University's Office of Honors Programs and Academic Scholarships.

The scholarships will be disbursed through Texas A&M's Distinguished Achievement Award program, which provides academic scholarships for academically successful African-American and Hispanic students. The scholarships are valued at $1,500 each.

To be considered for an award, students must have at least a 2.75 cumulative GPA. Recipients must enroll for at least 12 hours of courses during each of the two semesters that they hold the scholarships.

Center celebrates

10th anniversary Texas A&M's Center for Retailing Studies will celebrate its 10th anniversary Friday and Saturday. The center is one of eight nationally recognized centers located in the College of Business Administration and Graduate School of Business and one of the nation's premier centers for retailing education, research and service.

For more information, call the center at 845-0325.

Psychoanalyst to speak at A&M

Marion Woodman, an internationally renowned Jungian psychoanalyst, will speak on "Revolution or Resolution" at the Fourth Annual Fay Lecture Series to be held Friday through Sunday at Texas A&M.

Woodman is a resident of Toronto and a graduate of the famed C.G. Jung Institute in Zurich, Switzerland. She is noted for inspiring people with both the spoken and written word.

Thursday, April 1, 199

Tickets to the opening reception, the lecture series, Saturday's banquet and other related activities can be purchased at the box office in Rudder Tower. For more information, contact the psychology department at 845-0477.

A&M PR office to hold seminar

Dealing with the media during times of crisis will be the focus of the third professional development seminar sponsored by Texas A&M University's Office of Public Relations.

Speakers for the seminar are Frederick G. Thompson and Andrew M. Stern, two of the country's leading public relations practitioners. They will conduct a three-hour crisis management seminar beginning at 9 a.m. Friday in 601 Rudder Tower.

Advance registration is required, but there is no charge for the program.

Orientation program reaches record high by 'word of mouth' Correction Transfer Camp directors anticipate increased enrollment

By JEFF GOSMANO

The Battalion

Transfer Camp (T-Camp) officials are expecting a record number of campers this year for their transfer student orientation program.

Jennifer Coates, associate director of T-Camp and senior political science major, said Monday that camp enrollment increases because of "word of mouth" communication.

"The word is getting out about T-Camp," she said. "The camp is fairly new and the word is getting around that students can get connections at school and you get to meet other students. Jan Patterson, T-Camp adviser, said they anticipate about 500 students will attend this year's camp sessions. In the communic Similar to Fish Camp; the enrollment.

freshman orientation program, T-Camp provides transfer students with information not given during registration conferences. During the three-day camp session, transfer students learn about A&M traditions and university life

Patterson said more transfer students are seeking information about A&M as word of mouth communication increases

"As A&M becomes more and more academically challenging, students are looking for ways to ensure their success," she said. "Students who are knowledgeable and feel comfortable at the institution tend to be more successful in college.

As the number of campers increase, the need for camp counselors increases as well.

During the first T-Camp in 1987, 50 student counselors were needed. This year, the number of apply for the position because T-Camp does not have a bureaucracy. She said it is possible to move into leadership positions without previous counseling experience.

"T-Camp counselors don't have to work their way up," she said. "It's an immediate leadership opportunity."

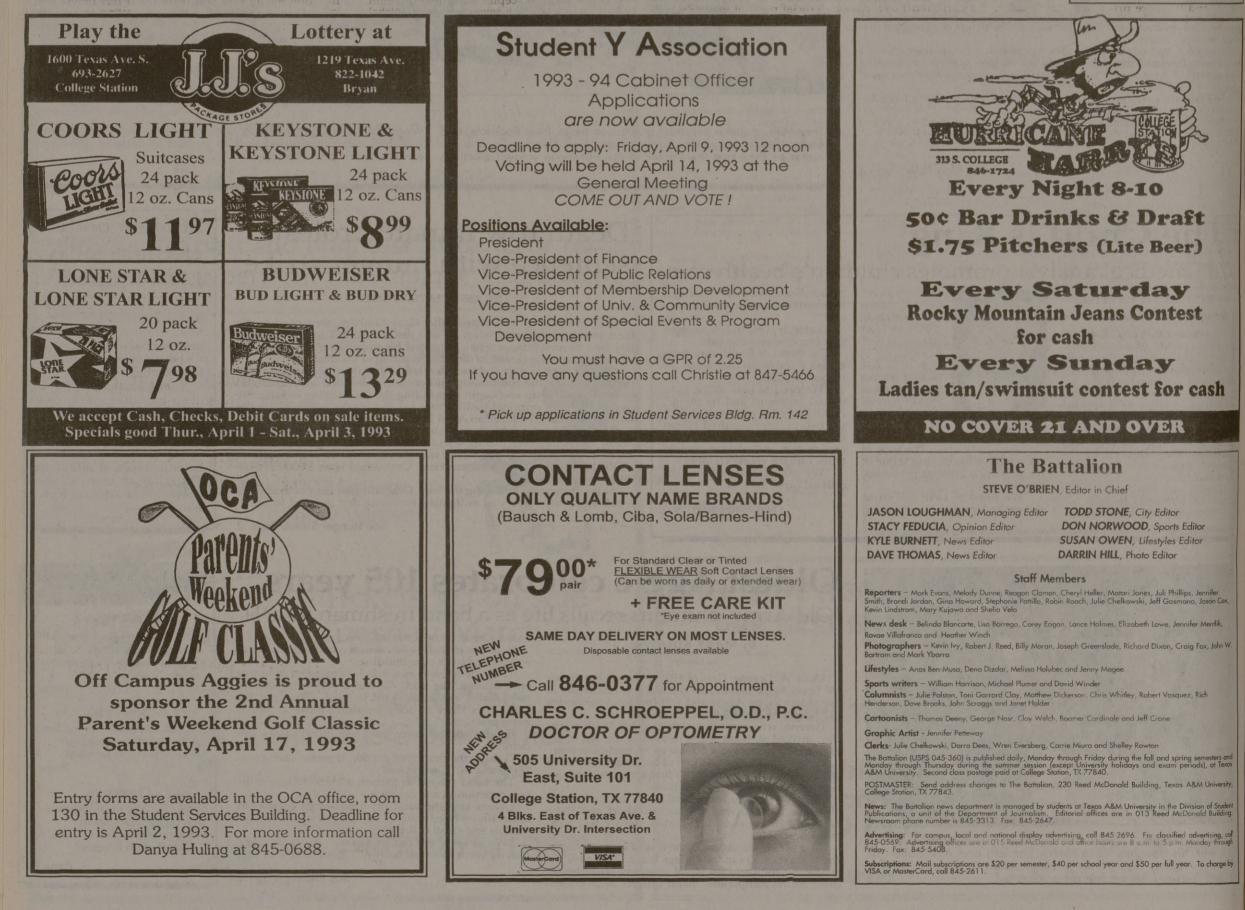

counselors has grown to 230. Coates said many students of The Battalion misidentified University Police the Department as the campu agency that hands out parking tickets.

error

editorial cartoo

appearing in Wednesday's issue

An

