Indian plane crash kills 55, wounds 12

AURANGABAD, India - An Indian Airlines jet carrying 118 people crashed on takeoff in the western city after hitting a truck beyond the runway Monday. Officials said 55 people died, but most of the 63 survivors walked away with scratches.

Twelve people were hospitalized.

The Boeing 737-200 lost height after its undercarriage and a wheel hit the truck, piled high with cotton bales, just past Aurangabad's Chitlakhana airport, 680 miles southwest of New Delhi, said S.T. Deo, airline regional director.

The survivors said the jet hit a power line while losing altitude. Deo said the plane caught fire and broke into three pieces as it smashed down on its belly four miles from the airstrip.

"The plane was in flames minutes after takeoff ... I heard a thud ... then the plane began to break up," survivor Nagar Sethi told United News of India. His nationality was not known.

Passenger Niranjan Mohan, a New York City resident, said "passengers at the back simply had no chance to escape."

Internal Security Minister Rajesh Pilot told Parliament one of the two engines burst into flames after takeoff.

Foreign embassies were told that at least four U.S. citizens, two French, a Japanese and a German were on board, diplomats said. But the U.S. Embassy said it had no confirmation any Americans were on the plane.

Concealed

cosponsor of the concealed handgun bill, said it is unconstitutional.

Wilson, who originally urged defeat of the amendment, said the proposal could be a leverage point in urging Gov. Ann Richards to support the bill.

"Strategically it's great for us," said Wilson, D-Houston. "The opponents obviously made a mistake. That's not our problem." Richards has said she is opposed to the handgun bill, and will likely veto it if it passes both the House and the Senate.

However, Richards' spokesman Chuck McDonald, following Monday's floor debate, said the proposed statewide referendum could affect the governor's decision.

"We're going to have to talk about the whole thing again now," McDonald said.

It takes a two-thirds vote of the House and Senate to override a veto.

Earlier Monday, Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock fired a verbal volley at Richards over the issue.

Bullock, presiding officer of the Senate, called on Richards to state plainly whether she is for or against the gun bill.

"I think the governor ought to take a firm stand one way or the other," he said.

Another Richards' spokesman, Bill Cryer, said the governor opposes the bill, and has said so repeatedly. But, he said, Richards will not say whether she will veto the legislation until lawmakers act on it.
