Officials encourage boaters to practice safety

By CARRIE MIURA
 The Battalion

Gov. Ann Richards is encouraging Texas boaters to "Boat Smart" this week in celebration of Texas Safe Boating Week. Terry Erwin, Recreational Programs Coordinator for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, said people need to boat responsibly. "The key to boating safely is to drive the boat responsibly and defensively while obeying all the rules in the Texas Water Safety Act," he said. Erwin said many students are a target for boating accidents because they don't think that boating accidents can happen to them.

A 1991 U.S. Coast Guard statistics report shows 50% of boating fatalities nationwide are alcohol related. "If you want to drink, stay on land, because alcohol has an ill effect on the body, especially in the hot summer sun," Erwin said. Erwin stressed the importance of wearing a life preserver when out on the water. U.S. Coast Guard statistics show that over 80% of boating fatalities involve people not wearing life jackets, he said. Ben Flusch, an official from the Boating Trades Association of Texas, encouraged all people to wear their life jackets. "So many lives may be saved by wearing a life saving device," he said.

Children ages 12 and under are required by Texas laws to wear a life preserver. "Always wear your personal flotation device, hold down your speed and keep a sharp look out," Erwin said. "Boaters must have a constant awareness when out boating because things such as wave action can change," he said. Basic primary courses on boat safety are given by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary, the U.S. Power Squadron and the American Red Cross. Erwin said, "Enjoy the water this summer, but in a safe manner."

Guest professors visit A&M from Czech Republic

Seven management professors from the Czech Republic, formerly Czechoslovakia, will visit A&M June 7-12. The professors, who are from Prague International Business School, will help Czech business executives learn how to manage in a free market economy. Funding for the visit comes from a $150,000 grant from the United States Information Agency to Texas A&M's center for International Business Studies.

part of the National Science Foundation's Research Experience for Undergraduates program. The undergraduates will come from smaller campuses to spend ten weeks working in a faculty members research group. They will each receive four credit hours for the work, a scholarship and up to $300 for travel expenses. The eleven students were selected out of 130 applicants.

Aggies honored with scholarships in San Antonio

Five Texas A&M students were honored at the San Antonio Livestock Exposition held on May 18. Brian Markwardt, Bucky Lamb, Marcille Rooney, Audrey P. McElroy and Jeff Travis received scholarships as part of the Youth in Agriculture program sponsored by the company.

Undergraduates receive research work opportunity

Eleven undergraduates from all over the country will visit A&M this summer to participate in chemistry research as
