Gunmen storm slum in Brazil

Rio de Janeiro residents blame police for mass killings

The Associated Press

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil — Dozens of hooded gunmen stormed a Rio slum Monday, killing at least 20 people and setting fires. Residents blamed police for the deaths, which followed mass killings of street kids and jungle Indians.

"It was a massacre. Women and children were machine-gunned," Col. Abilio Faria, a spokesman for the Rio de Janeiro state police. He said up to 24 people may have been killed.

He said it was too early to tell who was responsible for the shootings.

But many residents said the killings were in retaliation for the murder of four police in the same area Saturday. The murders were blamed on drug traffickers in the shantytown.

Witnesses said dozens of hooded men invaded the Vigario Geral slum around midnight. They set fire to vendors' stands and burst into homes, shooting randomly.

"We were sleeping in bed and heard a noise of somebody trying the door," recalled Angela dos Santos Ferreira, 41, whose husband was killed.

"My husband went to see, and I heard the shots. I've been hearing them ever since. I found him on the floor, his body covered with blood."

Bodies lay in the street Monday morning as residents blocked the slum's main street with fires and tree branches to protest the killings.

Police cars that tried to pass the barriers were pelted with stones and forced to retreat.

The president of the Vigario Geral residents' association, Nivaldo Ferreira de Souza, accused police of the massacre, saying it was apparently in retaliation for the murder of four colleagues in a Saturday night ambush.

A drug trafficking gang based in the shantytown was believed to have ordered Saturday's killings, Faria said the traffickers might have been responsible Monday's massacre too.

President Itamar Franco gave the case high priority by ordering Justice Minister Mauricio Correa to follow the investigation.

Health Tips

Your handy guide to Beutel Health Center

By Dr. Jane W. Cohen
A.P. BEUTEL HEALTH CENTER

With the fall semester beginning, everyone is meeting new people and getting into a new routine for the year. With all the excitement and rushing around, remember to take care of your health. If you eat nutritious meals, take part in regular physical activity, get plenty of rest, and control your stress, you will be on your way to a successful semester. However, if you do happen to get ill, the Health Center has some helpful tips so you can receive the care you need.

First, if you are ill, call the Health Center to make an appointment. The Health Center hours are 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Arrive 20 minutes before your appointment to ensure that you see your physician at your scheduled time. If you do not have an appointment, you may have a longer wait to see the physician.

Every student should have a Medical History Form on file at the Health Center. If you are a new student or a transfer student and have not turned in a form, you should do so as soon as possible. Stop by the Health Center if you need an additional form.

Next, you should prepare for your examination. You and your physician are partners in your health care. Your physician depends on you, as the patient, for the basic information about your health.

Be sure to provide accurate information about your health history. Writing down the facts ahead of time, when possible, will prepare you to make better use of the time you spend with your physician.

During your examination, do not be afraid to mention all your symptoms, and do not hesitate to ask your physician questions about the examination or diagnosis. The physician will be able to make an accurate diagnosis with your help. Additional X-rays, laboratory tests, or consultations may be advised.

Also during your examination, your physician will check to see if your immunization requirements are up-to-date. Texas A&M immunization requirements are:

1. Tetanus (within last 10 years)
2. Diphtheria (within last 10 years)
3. Polio series (not required if 18 or older)
4. Measles (two doses)
5. Mumps (at least one dose)
6. Rubella (at least one dose)
7. Mantoux tuberculosis (TB) skin test (required for students from outside the Continental U.S., except Canadians)

All of these immunizations are available at the Health Center. If you do not comply with these immunization requirements, you will be blocked from registering for classes.

Finally, and most importantly, follow your physician's instructions. Your recovery rate also depends on how you take care of yourself after you have visited the physician. Take all medication prescribed. Have any follow up tests performed, and call the physician if you have any additional questions about your treatment.

Your health is important to not only your physical well-being, but your emotional, spiritual, mental, and especially intellectual well-being. Taking care of yourself is a positive step towards your academic success.

The Health Education Center at the A.P. Beutel Health Center offers a variety of programs on health topics and maintains a resource file of health information in many areas of health. Tours of the Health Center are also available. Please call a member of Aggie R.E.A.C.H. (Representatives Educating About College Health) or the Health Center to schedule a visit for you or your organization. Please visit or call the Health Education Center - Room 016, A.P. Beutel Health Center, (409) 845-1341, if you have any questions about your health or need information for a class.
