Highway 6 frontage roads to undergo construction

By Jan Higginbotham

Highway 6 frontage roads are scheduled to undergo a face-lift in the coming weeks with construction beginning Sept. 7 to convert the roads to one-way traffic.

Denise Fischer, public affairs officer for the Texas Department of Transportation office in Bryan, said the reason for the conversion is safety.

She said the frontage roads along that stretch of Highway 6 see an average of 138 accidents per year.

"When the whole thing was built, it was understood that the conversion would eventually be made," Fischer said.

The conversion is set to occur in three segments. The first phase begins Sept. 7 and will include the conversion of frontage roads from FM 2818 to Martin Luther King Boulevard.

Work will start Sept. 13 on the second section from Martin Luther King Boulevard to University Drive (FM 60).

The final segment starts Sept. 20 and will include the conversion of roads from FM 60 to Rock Prairie.

The entire project is expected to be complete by Sept. 24.

Fischer said the Texas Department of Transportation will take precautions to help motorists adjust to the changes, although during the transition people will be inconvenienced.

Arrangements have been made with Bryan and College Station police to schedule extra patrols along the frontage roads to ease the transition for motorists.

Merchants along the frontage roads said they anticipate few problems.

A local car dealership is attempting to avoid potential problems by building its own feeder road behind the business.

Tim Light, of Tom Light Chevrolet Company, said construction on his feeder road has already begun.

The road runs directly behind the dealership and joins FM 158.

Light said the road is being built so customers will have an easier way in and out of the dealership.

Danny Johnson, of Bossier Chrysler Dodge Jeep-Eagle Inc., said he does not expect the conversion to have any affect on business at all.

"The only problem we foresee is the increase in traffic on the side roads," Johnson said.

involved with the University.

"It has been a great 20 years," he said. "But there comes a time for the old to give way for the new, and that is what I am doing today."

During his retirement, Koldus said he plans to write, conduct research, travel, and play golf.

"I'd like write a few things about A&M," he said. "We are building a house out in Pebble Creek a few miles from here because we want to continue our association with A&M."

Koldus said his most touching moment in his A&M career was four or five years ago after an Louisiana State University football game.

"There were a bunch of people at our house after the football game and there was a knock at the door," he said. "One of my students was there with a young man. This woman has lost her father to cancer, and she asked me to give her away at the (wedding) ceremony. It was a special moment."
