Alamo photo proves oldest taken in Texas

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — An amateur photographer's stop 144 years ago for an obligatory shot of the Alamo yielded what experts say is the earliest datable photograph taken in the state.

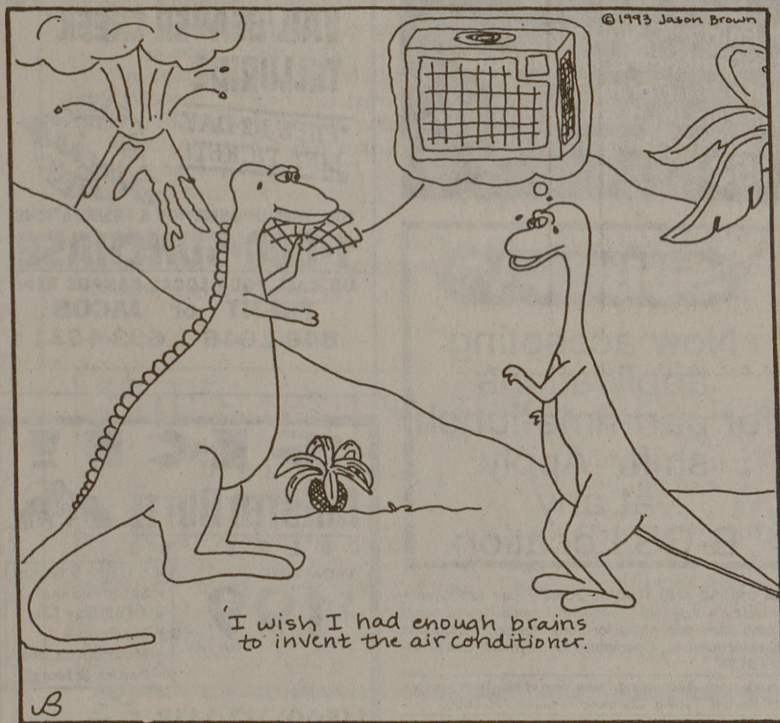

Former Texas Gov. Dolph Briscoe recently bought the 1849 daguerreotype photograph from a rare books dealer in New Haven, Conn., for $45,000 and donated it to the University of Texas at Austin Center for American History.

"It's nice to have it back in Texas where it belongs," Briscoe said.

Center Director Don Carleton said the photograph of the front facade of the Alamo chapel is the only known photographic view of the structure made before its reconstruction in 1850.

That year, the U.S. Army altered the Alamo's appearance in several significant ways, including adding the curved gable at the top of the church facade.
