Engineer claims IBM bosses made her have sex

The Associated Press

SANTA MONICA, Calif. — An IBM engineer is suing the computer company over her claim bosses forced her to have sex with a Pentagon official so IBM could get millions of dollars in government funding.

Veronica Gunther, 35, alleged superiors threatened to fire her in 1991 and 1992 unless she maintained a sexual relationship with Gary Denman, director of the Pentagon's Advanced Research Projects Agency, or ARPA.

International Business Machines Corp. and two of Gunther's managers, Ray Blonn and Nancy Green, were named as defendants in the state court lawsuit filed Friday. It seeks unspecified damages.

IBM spokesman Scott Brooks said the company doesn't comment on pending litigation.

ARPA spokeswoman Jan Walker also declined to comment. Efforts to locate Blonn, Green and Denman over the weekend for comment were unsuccessful.

Gunther has been on medical leave from the company since January, after twice attempting suicide while suffering from severe depression.

JUST THE BEGINNING

By Jason Brown

Now, you can get a head start on the MCAT!

The Princeton Review's Early Enrollment Option was designed for competitive students who want to begin reviewing biology, physics, chemistry, and organic chemistry before our course begins. The program consists of a pre-course diagnostic, a personalized pre-course study plan, and the powerful Caduceus MCAT review software.

Caduceus is an extensive science review package with exhaustive files on current MCAT topics. It includes over 3000 pages of review above and beyond the material otherwise included in The Princeton Review MCAT Course. It retails for over $200, but is provided to Princeton Review Early Enrollment Students at no charge.

Early Enrollment Test Dates

Saturday, Oct. 30
Saturday, Dec 4
