Strike

LaGuardia and Kennedy airports and Los Angeles. American will put passengers on 12 percent of its flights from Chicago, the airline's second-largest hub, executive vice president Bob Baker said.

In hopes of placating the tens of thousands of travelers who have had to seek other arrangements, Crandall said holders of unused, non-refundable tickets could get their money back. Those who are inconvenienced between Tuesday and next Monday can get a $100 voucher good towards an American ticket for one year.

The strike has cost the airline at least $10 million per day, Crandall said.

Once the strike is over, the flight attendant staff of about 21,000 will be cut by 4,000, Crandall said.

Crandall said an emergency mediation board would put the airline's future in the hands of people with no long-term interest in the company and would be exposed to political pressures.
