started 29 straight games since 1991. Adams anchored the Aggie defense to a No. 3 ranking nationally in total defense. He had 79 tackles, 14 for losses of 51 yards and 12 sacks. He forced five fumbles, recovered three others and one resulted in a score.

Brooks finished with 77 tackles, including seven for losses and two sacks. He broke up five passes despite missing two games and part of a third.

Waldrop, though consistently double-teamed, Waldrop had 53 tackles, including eight sacks and six others for losses.

We were successful against them (TSU)," she said, "because we executed our offense the way that we wanted."

A&M also has an exceptional press of its own, Branch said. "With the starting lineup that we have, (including) two of our taller players and two of our quickest players on the court," Branch said. "I think we should have an unbeatable press."

Against TSU, Branch set a goal to decrease her four turnovers from the previous game and she did not give up any. She said she will try to improve on her 6-assist-per-game against the Pilots.

"I think I will start setting goals for each game from now on," Branch said. "I will try to get 10 assists because I think that as the point guard, I should take more of a leadership role.

"Because if I get all the assists, I think that gets my team motivated because they follow my lead."

If the Lady Aggies start getting big leads against Texas Tech, Hickey said she will play more intensely from her defense.

"Against TSU we played well, but we kind of lost intensity," Hickey said. "I want them to get in the mind set when they get another game down, I want to see them play at a higher level to go up."
