

Parking

As a result of Hernandez's proposal, Williams said PTTS has created a new policy to help students who have to come on campus to settle last minute business.

"Students who have a red or blue parking permit or a bus pass will be provided a complimentary one-day permit to allow them to park in yellow areas that are currently designated as University Business lots," Williams said. "However, this does not include individually marked University Business spaces."

Also, student workers who are required to work on campus during the holiday break may present a memo from their supervisors to PTTS with the dates they will work. These students will be given a temporary permit dated Dec. 16, 1993 through Jan. 16, 1994, allowing them to park in University Business lots but not the individually marked University Business spaces.

Williams said the department has offered this service in the past, but students took advantage of it and parked in the lot the entire month of the break.

All temporary permits may be picked up in the PTTS offices located on the first floor of the Koldus Building.
