champion Emmitt Smith caught 57 passes for 414 yards and full-back Daryl Johnston was right behind him with 50 for 372.

Only Irvin had more catches than the two running backs.

All of that provides varied options for quarterback Troy Aikman, a condition Irvin thinks is ideal against Buffalo.

"They play cover-two a lot, which is a two-deep zone," he said, offering some playbook X's and O's. "I haven't seen much three-deep zone."

"If you get on your knees and we both pray enough, we may see some of that."

Aikman to decide if he will play in 'meaningless' game

The Associated Press

ATLANTA — Dallas quarterback Troy Aikman said Thursday he will visit his doctor in Birmingham the day after the Super Bowl to determine whether he will be healthy enough to be the starter for the NFC team in the Pro Bowl on Feb. 6.

"It's been a painful year," Aikman said. "I've had a hamstring pull and separated both shoulders, and tore cartilage in my ribs."

"I have a hard enough time staying healthy for the regular season, let alone playing a game that is rather meaningless."

who can seemingly do anything while only being a sophomore. Branch leads the conference in assists by a wide margin, and always seems to know when A&M needs a three-pointer or a steal.

On Wednesday night at Texas Christian, Branch set a new A&M record by nailing six three-pointers, while scoring a career-high 24 points.

Branch says she wants to play in Europe professionally after graduating, but I believe she should talk to the Rockets about replacing the consistently inconsistent Kenny Smith, who will probably be past his prime by Branch's graduation date.

But the Lady Aggies are hardly a one-woman show. Down in the low-post lurk any combination of sophomores Martha McClelland and Kelly Cerny, and freshman Marianne Miller.

This trio usually uses its height advantage and positioning power to turn inside passes into easy Aggie baskets. On the wings, A&M's corps of forwards provides steady offensive punch and defensive pressure, led by seniors Beth Burket and Nikki Littles.

Burket averages nearly nine points a game, and when she gets hot, she can be nearly unstoppable.

Littles is more of a Dennis Rodman-type player (although with much better hair), who bangs the boards and shuts down opposing players using her 6-foot, 1-inch, 175-pound frame for pure physical intimidation.

Sophomore guard Donyale Canada fills the other starting guard position, and is as pesky as Branch on defense, in addition to contributing a healthy seven points per game.

As the Dan Majerle Nike commercial says about putting a stat in the newspapers for the players who hustle the most, they had better spell guard Bambi Ferguson's name right. Another sophomore, Ferguson, when called off the bench plays with such intensity that the players around her can't help but step it up a notch.

Last Sunday afternoon versus Cal State Sacramento, Ferguson dove on the court or leapt out of bounds for a loose ball at least four times in about 10 minutes.

In addition, she had the shot of the day, which although it did not count, came after a hard foul, while she was falling forwards to the court.

So you've got ESPN, TNT and HSE, why do you need to come watch a game in person?

The reasons are exactly the same as those for going to a football game: everyone stands up, the yell leaders are there, along with a portion of the band.

If you don't like basketball, you can come merely to see young Reveille VI bark at small children.

Plus, as an added bonus, you get to actually use the "Sit down, Bus driver!" yell, and be close enough to the action to see why you're using it.

The Lady Aggies return home next Wednesday to play Baylor, followed by a monumental rumble with the Texas Tech Lady Red Raiders on Saturday night.

Tech is currently ranked sixth in the nation and a win over them would put A&M in a great position down the stretch in the conference race.

So come on over to G. Rollie Ags. Just consider it a two-hour study break where you can eat and drink, whoop and holler and see a bunch of fellow Aggies try to bring home the glory.

Let's Padre!

Spring Break '94 South Padre Island, Texas

Located on the tropical tip of Texas, South

Padre Island is the hottest Spring Break destination. Literally!

This year, Spring Break at SPI is hotter than ever with more music, more watersports and more legendary nightlife. Where else can you be breakin' and get a spicy taste of Mexico to boot?
