Kevorkian heads petition to legalize assisted suicides

The Associated Press

LIVONIA, Mich. — Standing like a preacher on a candlelit, flowery pulpit, Dr. Jack Kevorkian began a petition drive to legalize assisted suicide by urging about 700 Sunday churchgoers to join his crusade.

Kevorkian needs more than 250,000 signatures to place a constitutional amendment on the November ballot. In a speech between services at St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, Kevorkian spoke of the "right not to suffer" and damned the "tyrants" who passed Michigan's law banning assisted suicide.

"It's almost an insult to put this on the ballot. It's an insult to human reason. Why? Because that right exists. We have to remind ourselves that right is there," said Kevorkian, who has been present at the deaths of 20 people since 1990.

The enthusiastic audience gave several standing ovations as Kevorkian, a 65-year-old retired pathologist, spoke in front of a tall wooden crucifix and an open Bible.

Two people holding Bibles over their heads briefly interrupted the program as one yelled, "This church has been cursed today!"

"As a Christian, I think it's a disgrace that he stood in front of the crucifix," Dave Reuschle of Plymouth said after the rally.

But others said Kevorkian's presence showed the church's open-mindedness. Kevorkian was invited to speak by Pastor Thomas Egglebeen, who said the belief of many Christians that suicide is a mortal sin is a fallacy borne of politics instead of theology.

Peace

Arafat and Peres are due to meet again Sunday. They will then join a debate on Middle East peace with the Egyptian foreign minister and Jordan's crown prince at the privately organized World Economic Forum.

Upon his arrival at Zurich airport, Arafat told Swiss radio no breakthrough was imminent.

Israeli radio said expectations of an immediate result were "below zero" in Peres' delegation.

"I just hope for the best," Peres had told a crowd of journalists as he entered the luxury Seehofer hotel for the talks.

Arafat entered the hotel through a garage.

The Egyptian Middle East News Agency said earlier in Cairo that Arafat had asked Nabil Shaath, head of the Palestinian delegation to the peace talks, the last minute to join him in the Alpine resort.
