

Search continued for murderers in sneaker theft

The Associated Press

HOUSTON — Authorities continued their search Tuesday for two suspects in the fatal shooting of a high school student, killed after handing over his new Nike athletic shoes.

Adam Joseph Martin, 18, a junior at Wheatley High School, was shot to death Sunday night after he gave his $125 Nike sneakers as demanded, to two robbers.

"They had no reason to shoot him," Gregory Dewayne Pennamom, 20, said. "They had everything they wanted. They just straight up shot him."

Martin and Pennamom were walking in north Houston Sunday night when a car pulled over and two men inside demanded their shoes, jackets, caps and Pennamom's portable radio. One of the men was armed with a pistol, Pennamom said. Pennamom gave up his shoes, a pair of Adidas sneakers, and narrowly escaped his friend's fate by sprinting out of the line of fire as the car sped away.

"I ran to the corner and ran back, and he (Martin) was lying there," Pennamom said Monday. "I was wiping his face and holding his hand, and he said, 'Dewayne, I don't feel nothing. I don't feel nothing.'"

Martin died at Ben Taub Hospital about an hour after the shooting.

Relatives say Martin had saved money he made giving neighbors haircuts to buy the shoes last week.

Homicide investigator Clarence Douglas said investigators don't have much to go on, except the vehicle description. The car's passenger-side headlight was out. The suspects, he said, were men in their 20s.
