her legislative goals. This includes reducing government spending.

"Bob Dole and I introduced a bill last week, and it has a $50 billion spending cut that will go right to the deficit reduction," she said.

Hutchison accused President Clinton and Gov. Ann Richards of inflating the cost of government, and called for both to reduce their budgets by at least 10 percent.

"I have kept a promise that I made when I was running for Senate," she said, "and that promise was that I would cut my budget in my Senate office by 20 percent."

This month will be crucial in the fight for a balanced budget amendment, she said.

"There is another option to increasing taxes and it is called spending cuts," she said.

Hutchison, who is on the Senate Armed Services Committee, said the Clinton administration doesn't have much of a foreign policy regarding Bosnia.

"The first part of the policy is going to be that there is an American interest before spilling one drop of blood, and I don't think Bosnia meets the test, and I will not support air strikes on Bosnia," she said.

She said the solution to the difficulties in Bosnia is to lift the arms embargo so that those under attack can defend themselves.
