

Scott Torn — for Senior Yell Leader

Ballot No. 3

Howdy Aggies! My name is Scott Torn. I'm a junior political science major from Sugar Land and a member of Company F-2 of the Corps of Cadets. This year I am running for re-election as a Senior Yell Leader. It was an honor and the greatest opportunity of my life to serve as Junior Yell Leader. However, I am not running for re-election because of last year, I'm running to make this next year the best it can be. When Aggies look down on the field, or court, they want to see five guys working as hard as they can to keep the crowd going. Aggies want to see the class and hospitality on which A&M prides itself exhibited by the Yell Leaders when they speak to groups of fellow Ags or to people who know nothing about A&M at all. Finally, Aggies want five guys who will work together as Yell Leaders, not for themselves, but for the students, athletes and traditions of Texas A&M. This is why I'm running for re-election and asking for your vote to make next year better than ever. My name is Scott Torn, #3 on the ballot, for re-election as Senior Yell Leader. Thanks for your time and Gig 'Em!

Dave Frazier — for Senior Yell Leader

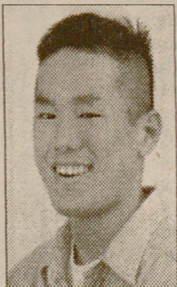

Ballot No. 4

Howdy Ags! My name is Dave Frazier. Many of you have seen my Super Dave signs around campus. I am a civil engineering major, Fightin' Texas Aggie Class of '95. Whoop! I am from Karnes City, a small town about 60 miles south of San Antonio. I have always been involved with the people around me from participating in all high school sports to being a volunteer firefighter. The ability to not only to help but leading has always been very important to me. It is something that I am good at and take a lot of pride in.

I am especially excited about the next school year. I am a very big sports fanatic and love to beat the hell outta t.u. I enjoy going to all the different sporting events. Texas Aggies have had an incredible year in men's and women's basketball and finally the Fightin' Texas Aggie baseball and track team. Our recent invitation to the expanded Big Eight has fired me up with Aggie Spirit. I want every Aggie to feel the fire and pride I carry inside of me. I want to start the spark and fuel the fire that will burn eternally for the rest of our lives. As a Yell Leader, I will have the opportunity to show my enthusiasm in front of the Fightin' Texas Aggie 12th Man. I have the ability and the power to do all this and much more. My goal is to represent the entire Aggie family and to inspire those who have not yet seen the power and tradition of Texas A&M. Gig 'Em Ags.

Ron Mo — for Junior Yell Leader

Ballot No. 1

Howdy Ags! My name's Ron Mo, a sophomore marketing major from Irving. I'm here to electrify, excite and unify the University.

Texas A&M should resemble a keychain with many keys in it. When you carry a keychain, you know that each key serves its own function and purpose. A&M is a world-class university with 43,000 diverse students. Like each key, every student is unique and goes about his or her life as to serve a special purpose. A&M is that keychain that brings all Aggies together.

I want to be a role model yell leader, but most important, I want to be seen as a real person, a person that people can relate to as an achiever and a friend.

There are many risks to campaigning for yell leader, but if you want something bad enough, you'll risk almost everything. Because, to place your ideas, your dreams before a crowd is to risk their loss. Risks must be taken, however, because the greatest hazard in life is to risk nothing. People who risk nothing may avoid suffering and sorrow, but they cannot learn, feel or grow.

So go out there, tell people about me and vote. I represent 96% of the university which doesn't get represented very often. I want to make a difference in yours and other peoples' lives so you can go to sleep knowing that there is another Aggie out there along side of you supporting you every step of the way.

Vote for the one that's breaking down all barriers. Ron Mo for junior yell leader...unifying the University in the spirit of the 12th Man.

Jeff Heath — for Senior Yell Leader

Ballot No. 5

Howdy! I'm Jeff Heath, a junior marketing major from Buda, Texas and a member of Company E-2 of the Corps of Cadets. There is something very special about the pride that we, as Aggies, take in Texas A&M. Every tradition that we take part in was built by that pride and continues today because of it. I had the opportunity last year to represent Texas A&M as Mascot Corporal and escort Reveille to all athletic events. Through that experience, I met students from many different universities and found that there is no other school that has the student support or involvement that A&M does. I also found that not very many people know about it. I know what it takes to represent the 12th Man, and I am running for Senior Yell Leader because I think that this next year is a very important year for us. The achievements that we are making in all our athletic programs are causing a lot of schools to keep an eye on us, especially those Big Eight schools. They are all going to be watching to see who we are and what the 12th Man really is. Next year, I want the 12th Man to show them that, no matter what the event, we are going to show up with all of the love and pride that we have and there isn't a thing that they or anyone else can do about it! Jeff Heath, #5 on the ballot. Gig 'Em!

Brian Di Paolo — for Junior Yell Leader

Ballot No. 2

Howdy Ags! My name is Brian DiPaolo, and I want to be your next Junior Yell Leader. The position of Yell Leader at Texas A&M University has the power to motivate and influence our student body. Using that influence, I promise to make a difference here in Aggieland. Whether it is to motivate the Fightin' Texas Aggie 12th Man or talk with a fellow Ag walking home from class, I wish to make a lasting impression on Texas A&M that will keep the Spirit of Aggieland burning forever. I've been at Texas A&M for almost two years now, and I have already gained many lasting memories. My first Silver Taps, standing on the last row of the third deck of Kyle Field, and watching Bonfire burn knowing that one of my logs was on the stack... these are only a few of the memories that will live with me forever. Because of all that I have gained from my life here at Texas A&M, the position of Junior Yell Leader is a great opportunity for me to give back to Aggieland. I will put forth every effort to make the experience of all Aggies as special as my own. Anyone can attend class and be a college student, but it takes a whole lot more to be Fightin' Texas Aggie! Gig 'Em.

David Kemp — for Junior Yell Leader

Ballot No. 3

Howdy Aggies! My name is David Kemp, and I am an industrial engineering major from Sonora, Texas. I'm running for Fightin' Texas Aggie Yell Leader Class of 1996. I'm a proud member of the Corps of Cadets and am in Company K-1. Being a first generation Aggie, and also being from a small town, I found myself completely overwhelmed by the Aggie Spirit that was shown to me by all the Ags that I met. The first time I walked onto campus, and everyone said "Howdy" to me, there was no doubt in my mind that there was any other university that could compare.

Aggie traditions are what sets A&M apart from any other university in the world. I would like to share the feeling of pride that I get when "Taps" is softly blown, the chills that I get when the Fightin' Texas Aggie Bands takes Kyle Field, and the feeling of belonging to a big family when I walk on campus and everyone says "Howdy." I want to share all of these things with fellow Ags, non-Ags and future Ags. I feel that the best way to spread the Aggie Spirit is to be a Junior Yell Leader.

I hope that all Aggies feel the way I feel about Texas A&M and use some of that Aggie Spirit and get out and vote. Remember David Kemp #3 on the ballot. Thanks for your time and support. Gig 'Em.

Henry P. Hewes — for Junior Yell Leader

Ballot No. 4

Howdy Ags. My name is Henry Hewes, and I'm running for Fightin' Texas Aggie Junior Yell Leader. I'm in the class of 1996. Whoop! I'm originally from Gulfport, Miss., and I'm taking construction science. I'm a proud member of the Fightin' Texas Aggie Corps of Cadets. Being an out-of-state student, Texas A&M took me in and made me a part of the Aggie family. That's what it's all about Ags: Taking a total outsider and engulfing him in the Aggie Spirit and Pride. Those are two things that can't be explained. It's what you feel in your heart, and it's what makes you get chills down your spine when the Fightin' Texas Aggie Band plays the Aggie War Hymn. That's something that you can't put into words, just something you experience in what we dearly hold in our hearts as Aggieland.

I'm going to tell you two reasons why you will want to vote for me for Junior Yell. I love to meet people! Through every old Ag, future Ag and every non A&M student I meet, I want them to look through my eyes and see the love and respect that I have for Texas A&M. I want to represent you, the 12th Man, as the most visible person on campus, a Junior Yell Leader. Number two: Texas A&M has given me so much spirit, pride, friends, and education, and most of all family. I just want a chance to give a little something back. So remember on Wednesday and Thursday to vote for the person that will represent you will all his heart and soul that revolves within and around Texas A&M. I'm #4 on the ballot and #1 in Texas A&M's hearts. Spread the News, Vote for Hewes. Gig 'Em.

Mike Tippit — for Junior Yell Leader

Ballot No. 5

My name is Mike Tippit, and I'm the #5 candidate on the ballot for Junior Yell. Some of you may know because I was Schumacher Hall Crew Chief for Fightin' Texas Aggie Bonfire 1993. Whoop!

I am a sophomore rangeland ecology and management major from Georgetown and a member of the Class of 1996. Having lived on campus for the past two years, I have noticed several different ways to get involved in Texas A&M traditions and organizations. I believe that the key to the success of Texas A&M lies not only in the efforts of its leaders but also in the involvement of the student body.

I have been looking forward to coming to A&M for a long time and I decided before I came here that I was going to leave this school a better place than it was when I got here. This university has done so much for me that I've decided it's time for me to do something in return.

My goals as a Yell Leader for Texas A&M are to get more people involved in traditions and organizations, to increase attendance at all sporting events, and to try my best to get to know as many different people's names as I possibly can. I'm an extremely motivational person who is ready to represent the student body and Texas A&M the best I can. Get out and vote for #5, Mike Tippit, for Junior Yell, on March 30 and 31.
