Jury finds Tilton guilty for misusing couple's donation

The Associated Press

DALLAS — Televangelist Robert Tilton, who preached prosperity through faith, defrauded a Houston couple by misusing their donation to his ministry, a jury decided Thursday.

Mike and Vivian Elliott of Tampa, Fla., donated $3,500 to a crisis center, but instead got "nothing more than fuel for Tilton's lavish lifestyle," said their lawyer, Gary Richardson.

"That's the kind of people Robert Tilton is preying on," the kind of people he's robbing," Richardson said.

The Elliotts were awarded $500,000 in actual damages and $1 million in punitive damages in a civil fraud and breach of contract lawsuit against Tilton, his wife, Marte, and the World of World Outreach Center Church suburban Dallas.

Richardson, who has six cases pending against Tilton, said the fraud is a get-rich-quick scheme preying on the troubled and poor.

"This case was about an evangelist trying to hide behind First Amendment rights to freedom of speech and defraud people. It will have more impact on society and what happens in this country religiously speaking than any other case," he said.

The Elliotts contended their contribution didn't go toward a crisis center as they were promised. Tilton also said Tilton's television show improperly credited Tilton with dissuading Mrs. Elliott from committing suicide.

Mrs. Elliott was depressed about thinking about suicide when she responded to Tilton's televised appeal. Richardson told the jury, which began deliberation on Tuesday.

The ministry sent her a letter containing purported testimony of people who became successful shortly after contributing $1,000 more, he said.
