Corps commander receives outstanding cadet award

Will Haraway, last year's commander of the Texas A&M Corps of Cadets and a student with the Army Reserve Officer's Training Corps, has been selected a recipient of the 1994 George C. Marshall Award.

Haraway, a senior political science major, received the award earlier this month. The award is presented to the most outstanding cadet at 270 universities.

Honors office pays tribute to scholarship recipients

Texas A&M University honors students who will be recognized at a variety of activities during Honors Week, which began Monday.

The event, which is sponsored by the Office of Honors Programs and Academic Scholarships, will include ceremonies to honor scholarship recipients and interactive games.

Honorees include students who are graduating with University or foundation honors, teacher scholars, those involved in the Undergraduate Research Fellows Program and students who will participate in next year's Undergraduate Research Fellows Program.

Kibler takes over as vice president for student affairs

Dr. J. Malon Southerland, vice president for student affairs, named Dr. William Kibler assistant vice president for student affairs last week.

Kibler has served as interim assistant vice president since September and has performed all duties and services in an outstanding matter, said Southerland.

A&M education dean to head national association

Dr. Jane Stallings, dean of Texas A&M University's College of Education, has begun her tenure as president of the American Educational Research Association.

Stallings, who is the first and only woman dean at Texas A&M, was selected for the presidency last April and has served as president-elect for the past year.

The association seeks to improve the educational process by encouraging research related to education.

A&M Recreation and Parks names alumni award winner

Bryan Community Services Director John Blackburn is the 1994 recipient of the Leslie M. Ried Alumni Award presented by the Texas A&M Department of Recreation, Park and Tourism Sciences.

The award honors an individual who has "outstanding professional achievements, integrity, recognition among peers and genuine concern and support for the Department of Recreation, Park and Tourism Sciences."

Dr. Blackburn is the immediate past-president of the Texas Recreation and Park Society, a board member of the Southwest Park and Recreation Training Institute and former representative to the Southwest Regional Council of the National Recreation and Park Association.

Mobley creates special assistant position to link A&M System schools

Hector Gutierrez Jr., formerly assistant vice president for government relations for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. in Austin, has been named special assistant to the chancellor of the Texas A&M University System by Chancellor William Mobley.

In this newly created position, Gutierrez will provide leadership in linking programs and activities among institutions within the Texas A&M System, with particular attention to the development of the system's three South Texas institutions, Texas A&M International University in Laredo, Texas A&M University-Corpus Christi and Texas A&M University-Kingsville.
