

Reville VI lays down for a nap during a press conference announcing the replacement of the retiring Reville V.

Elephant Walk – Class of '94 dies.

Senior Jason Atkinson reflects on the Aggies' second consecutive loss to the Irish in the Cotton Bowl.

Trent round...
orters
as he vested election...
well.

1993-94: a year to reflect upon

Finals begin today and unless you have a test in history, that subject is probably the furthest thing from your mind.

Regardless, another school year has come and gone and many events have transpired that changed our world – locally and globally.

In 1993-94 we saw the cycle of life work its natural course. New humans entered this world and loved ones departed.

Whether it was a young rock star or a respected politician who passed on, the time they spent here deserves mention because our leaders in political and popular culture reflect our society.

The passing of notable figures is followed by reflection as to what will — or will not — be missed by their departures.

With worldwide conflicts escalating in Bosnia, Rwanda, Haiti and Korea, the role the world, the United States and our local community plays changes daily.

No person needs to address these issues more than the president. But these are tough issues and President Clinton's attention was divided this year.

Whether through personal problems or health care, First Lady Hillary Rodham Clinton gained her share of the limelight through the year as well.

But more than politics, this past year saw many timeless events occur in sports.

We saw a basketball great leave the sport to pursue another dream — baseball.

We saw the heavyweight title change hands again and we saw a world champion football team back up its title.

Away from sports, this year we saw nearly as many weddings as divorces.

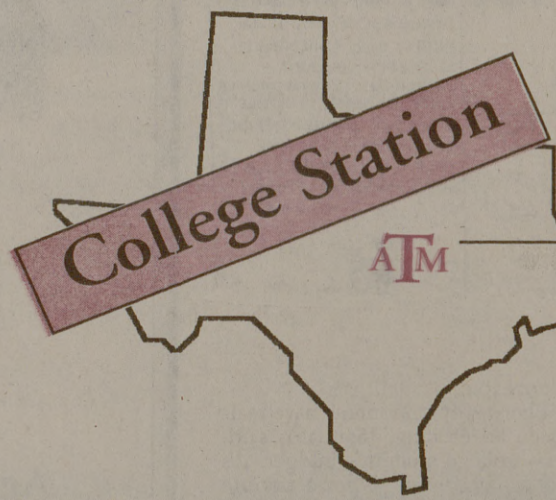

And also in this year, we saw another university grappling with the same gender issue A&M tackled 20 years ago. Like A&M, The Citadel will surely be the better for it.

Speaking of grappling, this year we saw the A&M administration and athletic department come under fire.

Away from the University, this year saw NASA, famed for failure, successfully repair the Hubble telescope.

In no way is "The Year in Review" comprehensive, it merely highlights a few names that appeared at a few places in time.

If you get a chance, try to think back and soak up the changes that have taken place over the past year in our town, our state, our country and our world.

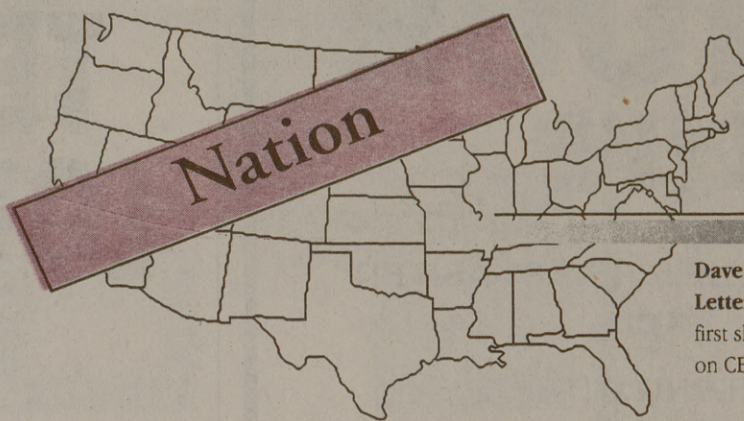

Aug. 31, 1993

Dr. John J. Koldus, vice president of student services, retires after 20 years of service to Texas A&M.

The Battalion turns 100 years old.

Oct. 1

Aug. 31

Dave Letterman's first show airs on CBS.

Sept. 22

Hillary Rodham Clinton unveils her care plan.

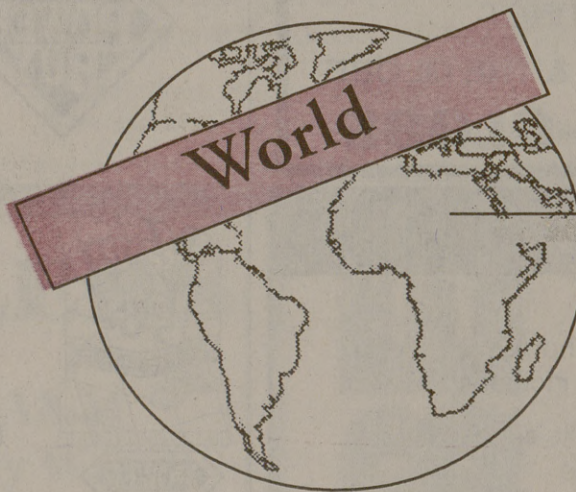

The trends

What's in . . .

Garth Brooks
in-line skates
Taco Bell
body piercing
Ford Explorers
David Letterman
the waif look
Wal-mart Superstores & Sam's
Jodie Foster
Tom Hanks
bare feet with clogs
daisy dukes
grunge colors
"Melrose Place"
Barry Switzer
"Saturday Night Live"
snow boarding
The Club
car phones
"Seinfeld"
Demi Moore and Bruce Willis
Janet Jackson
Zima
The Gap and J. Crew
baseball caps
Snapple
infomercials
Beavis

What's out . . .

Billy Ray Cyrus
skateboards
anything not open 24 hours
tattoos
Minivans
Arsenio Hall, Chevy Chase, . . .
the Barbie look
grocery stores
Julia Roberts
Tom Cruise
white socks with loafers
walking shorts
neon colors
"90210"
Jimmy Johnson
"In Living Color"
snow skiing
car alarms
cordless phones
"L.A. Law"
Christie Brinkley and Billy Joel
Michael Jackson
real beer
The Limited and Express bows
Clearly Canadian
quality programming
Butt-head

Sept. 9, 1993

Israel, PLO sign historic accord agreeing on mutual recognition.

Oct. 3

Russian hard-liners attempt a coup over Boris Yeltsin's pro-democracy government.

Deaths

Actor Fred Gwynne, best known as "Herman Munster," age 66

Telly Savalas, best known as "Kojak," age 70

Actress/singer Dinah Shore, age 76

Actor River Phoenix, age 23

Actor/comedian John Candy, age