

Aggie softball field needs better name

MARK SMITH

Sports Editor

What's in a name? A rose by any other name would smell as sweet. Yeah, maybe. But sometimes names mean more than a way to classify something. They can take on a life and a personality of their own. A name can help define a place and make it unique.

Ebbots Field, Yankee Stadium, Fenway Park. Those baseball parks all have a unique persona that were defined by the players, coaches and fans that graced their surface. Their names live on.

However, modern day stadium makers have come up with such brilliant names as the Ballpark in Arlington and the Lady Aggie Softball Complex.

The Lady Aggie Softball Complex. Doesn't exactly roll off the tongue, does it?

"Hey guys, let's go over to the Lady Aggie Softball Complex to watch the game."

No, it just doesn't work. What you need is a name that is short and that calls up an image of something hallowed and special.

That's why A&M needs a new name for the softball complex.

It could be named after a great player, like Pat Olsen Field is now. In that case the complex might be named Lori Stoll Field or Shawn Andaya Park. Stoll was a four-time All-American and is a member of the Texas A&M Hall of Fame. Andaya was a three-time All-American and is currently an assistant coach for A&M.

Both served on A&M teams that brought home a national

A&M pitchers taken in baseball draft

Juniors Clemons and Moore picked by Chicago White Sox, Seattle Mariners

By Brian Coats THE BATTALION

Texas A&M head baseball coach Mark Johnson characterized the first two rounds of last week's Major League Baseball amateur draft as "interesting."

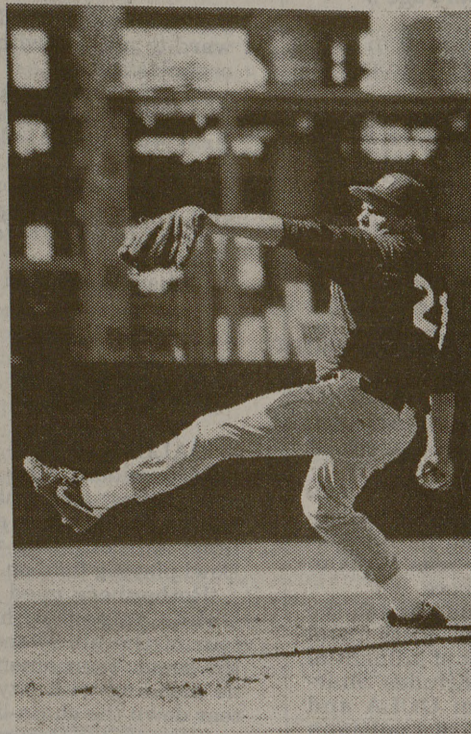

"From what I was hearing before the draft from scouts, everyone thought it (the draft) would turn out different than it did," he said.

Johnson said one of the biggest surprises was Mark Farris, a two-sport star from Angleton, being drafted 11th overall by the Pittsburgh Pirates. Farris was recruited and has signed on to play both football and baseball at A&M. Now there is a chance Farris won't come to A&M.

"It doesn't look good with Farris," Johnson said. "The Pirates would not have used a pick that high if they did not expect him to sign. We'll have to wait and see what happens."

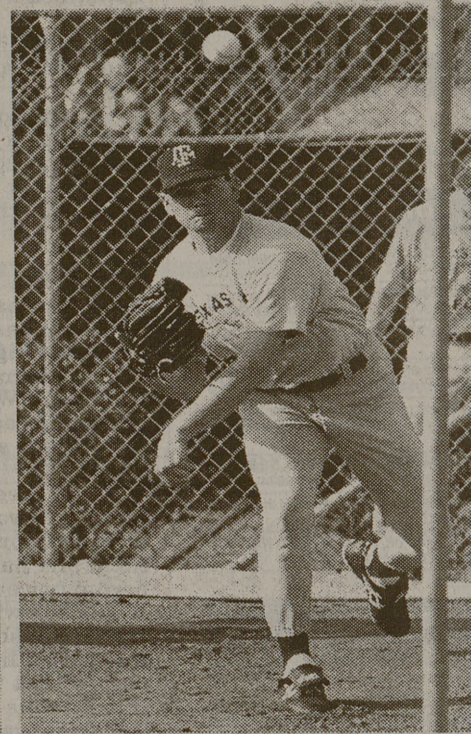

The Chicago White Sox used the 32nd overall pick to select A&M junior Chris Clemons. There had been speculation that the Colorado Rockies would use the seventh pick to take the hard-throwing right-hander.

However, they chose Doug Million from Sarasota High School in Florida instead. Million is regarded as the top left-handed pitching prospect in the na-

Clemons was not the only A&M pitcher to be drafted. Trey Moore, an All-American his sophomore year, was taken with the 14th pick of the second round by the Seattle Mariners.

Olajuwon, Ewing meet in championship...again

HOUSTON (AP) — It's another decade and another league, yet here they are: Hakeem Olajuwon and Patrick Ewing going at each other again with a title on the line.

Olajuwon and the Houston Rockets will meet Ewing and the New York Knicks in Game 1 of the NBA Finals on Wednesday night, 10 years after Olajuwon and Ewing played for Houston and Georgetown for the NCAA championship.

Georgetown won 84-75.

"It's been so long ago I don't remember much. I know we lost," Olajuwon said Monday as the Rockets resumed workouts in The Summit. "But that's the beauty of the NBA. You have many chances. That was a different league and a different time. I've never won a championship and now I have the chance."

The Knicks ended a grueling seven-game Eastern Conference series with Indiana with a 94-90 victory on Sunday night to set up the return engagement of the former college rivals.

The Olajuwon-Ewing matchup will be a central feature of the best-of-7 series.

Olajuwon has been more successful against Ewing in the pros. The Rockets have a 10-6 record in the 16 games Ewing and Olajuwon have played. Olajuwon has averaged 26.1 points, 3.1 blocks and 13.8 rebounds in those games compared with Ewing's 21.9 points, 2.2 blocks and 9.4 rebounds.
