

Soccer to face No. 1 N. Carolina

The Texas A&M women's soccer team, in only its second season, faces its toughest test to date when they take on eight-time defending national champion North Carolina and 20th-ranked Maryland in two games this weekend in Dallas.

"North Carolina and Maryland are probably two of the best coached teams in the country," Texas A&M head coach Gerald Guerrieri said. "I just hope our players will be ready to meet the challenge of playing to their potential."

The Aggies, 2-0, will be led on offense by their strong mid-fielding corps, led by junior midfielder Corie Hammers. Hammers is A&M's scoring leader in the young season, with three goals and one assist. The defense, however, might be the key to the Aggies' success this weekend.

"We have really good defenders," senior keeper Michelle Crofts said. "They played well against New Mexico and Centenary without giving them a chance to take a shot. If they can keep up the pressure, high pressure, we can do it."

The Aggies are coming off a strong performance in the Plano Labor Day Invitational last weekend. Senior Anna Whitehead sees the Carolina game as a challenge, and is looking to meet that challenge head on.

"It's going to be the game of a lifetime," Whitehead said. "They're (North Carolina) just legends, and we just need to forget about that part and play our hearts out."

North Carolina, winner of 11 of the 12 NCAA women's soccer titles, comes into Friday's game with a 83-match winning streak. The Tar Heels, arguably one of the greatest collegiate sports' dynasties, have lost once in the past eight years, an overtime loss to the University of Connecticut in 1990.

Anson Dorrance, in his 16th season as the Tar Heel head coach, boasts a career record of 300-8-9. The Tar Heels feature three-time All-America midfielder Tisha Venturini, senior goal keeper Shelley Finger and sophomore forward Debbie Keller, the team's leading scorer.

The Maryland Terrapins, 1-1, started the season with a 2-0 loss to the Tar Heels. They return eight starters from the team that finished last year at 13-5-2. April Heinrichs, a UNC graduate, leads the Terrapins in her fourth season as head coach.

"Back when it was a non-scholarship team, we had nothing," Whitehead said. "I've come all the way with the program and never dreamed of this when I first started playing here. It is a dream come true to play North Carolina. We're going to go into it with nothing to lose."
