Milwaukee Bucks fall to Houston in preseason game

HOUSTON (AP) — Vernon Maxwell HOUSTON (AP) — Vernon Maxwell hit a 3-pointer with 1.3 seconds to play Wednesday night as the Houston Rockets held off the Milwaukee Bucks for a 119-116 exhibition victory.

Maxwell, who hit a number of clutch 3-pointers last season, took a pass on the side with time running down. His shot hit the rim, bounced straight into the air and fell through.

The Bucks never led after the first basket of the game but Lee Mayberry scored 39 points and fueled a fourthquarter rally that caught the defending NBA champions with 25.9 seconds left in the game.

A free throw by Arturas Karnishovas tied the game at 116-116 but the Rockets called a timeout and set up the play for Maxwell, who scored 21 points.

The Rockets celebrated the return of MVP Hakeem Olajuwon to the lineup.
Olajuwon missed the first three days of preseason workouts and did not play in the preseason opener against Philadelphia because of an injury to his left sinus cavity received in a pickup game. He scored 14 points and played most of the game.

The Rockets led 68-51 at halftime and were up 91-70 with four minutes to play in the third quarter when the lead started slipping away.

The Bucks, playing without unsigned
No. 1 draft pick Glenn Robinson, rallied behind the shooting of guard
Todd Day, who scored 20 points, and Mayberry.

Mario Elie scored 18 points for the Rockets and Vin Baker added 19 for the Bucks.
