

Lady Aggies to play UTA Mustangs

By Jason Holstead
THE BATTALION

After avenging an early season Southwest conference loss against Texas Tech with a win Wednesday night at G. Rollie White Coliseum, the Lady Aggies travel to play the University of Texas-Arlington Lady Mavericks tonight in a non-conference match.

The Lady Aggies are completing a tough schedule that included three straight losses against nationally-ranked teams before the win Wednesday night.

Head coach Laurie Corbelli said the team is starting to realize they can play at a very high volleyball level.

"We have played some top level teams over the last week, and I have been real pleased how the team has prepared and executed against those teams," Corbelli said. "It is nice that I don't have to convince them (to play at a high level), because they have experienced it and seen that they can do it."

"Now we just need to steady it out and demand from ourselves every rally. If we achieve that, we will achieve our goal of advancing to the playoffs."

The Lady Mavericks (6-12 overall record) have won six out of their last 10 matches. The team is led by Mandy Martz and Heather Hoy. Martz has accumulated 178 kills and 134 digs for the season, while Hoy is hitting a team-high .336 and leading the team with 45 blocks.

UTA owns a 25-21 series advantage against Texas A&M since 1976, although the Lady Aggies have won the last four meetings. Last season A&M defeated UTA 15-2, 17-15, 15-7 in College Station. UTA has not beaten the Lady Aggies since 1989.

Corbelli said the match against UTA should be a good test for the Lady Aggies.

"UTA has a new staff and a new system, and we will be playing on their home court," Corbelli said. "I hope we get into a rhythm early and are able to run our offense.

"If we get started early, we will be hard to stop. That is what we will be striving for."

After tonight's game, the Lady Aggies travel to Baylor for a SWC showdown with the Lady Bears Saturday night at 7:30. The Baylor match will represent A&M's fourth match in six days.
