Abortion pill study revealed

NEW YORK (AP) — Fearful of violence, a research organization is conducting the first nationwide study of the French abortion pill RU-486 without saying where the work is being done or how many clinics are participating in the task.

"You may have noticed there are some nuts out there who do bad things to people who deliver abortions," said Dr. C. Wayne Bardin, research director at the Population Council, the nonprofit group sponsoring the study.

More than 100 women have been given the pill since September as part of the $8 million study, which could make the drug routinely available in the United States by 1996, Bardin said.

The availability of RU-486, now called mifepristone, will not be advertised, Bardin said Thursday at a news conference. Women coming to clinics for surgical abortions will be quietly taken aside and advised of the new option, he said. Security guards were posted at the entrance to the news conference in a New York hotel. Reporters were asked to show identification before being admitted.

The study is aimed at determining the safety and effectiveness of RU-486. When it is completed in the spring of 1995, an application for approval of the abortion pill will be submitted to the Food and Drug Administration, which has promised to expedite its review, Bardin said.

"It is a tragedy that pro-abortion advocates want to use women as guinea pigs," Wanda Franz, president of the National Right to Life Committee, said in a statement. "NRLC opposes testing of RU-486 for abortion both because it kills unborn children and because its long-term side effects for women are unknown."

Bardin said more than 12 and fewer than 20 clinics are involved in the study. It will include 2,100 women who are in the first two months of pregnancy.

Immediately after the conference, Planned Parenthood Federation of America announced that its clinics in the country are participating.

"We're excited to be part of its introduction into the United States," said Jane Johnson, executive vice president of Planned Parenthood Federation of America. She said she does not expect Planned Parenthood's participation to mean any additional security.

The Population Council is testing the drug under an agreement reached in May with the drug's maker, Roussel Uclaf of France. The company is partly in response to pressure from the Clinton administration, which, unlike its Republican predecessors, wanted the drug made available in the United States.

Inspectors fine Wendy's for skimpy burgers

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A patty raid on a Wendy's has left inspectors asking "Where's the beef?" and others wondering "What's the beef?"

Tests on 24 uncooked patties Wednesday found 22 weren't quarter-pounders as advertised, several as much as a quarter-ounce light. City inspectors grabbed the whole batch of 960 patties and fined Wendy's $100 a burger, or $96,000, in keeping with state law and federal Department of Agriculture guidelines.

The fine for skimpy burgers was the first in the 25-year history of Wendy's International Inc., the nation's third-largest hamburger chain, company spokesman Denny Lynch said.

The patty inspections were follow-up to an August raid also found underweight burgers at the Wendy's in the city's city section.

Trial

was aware that Armstrong had received a summons to appear in court.

"I think that's all he knows as far as I'm concerned," Slocum said. "He asked the officer who gave him the summons what it was about, but the officer said he didn't know. Apparently someone's telling (the media) a whole lot more than they're telling Antonio."

Slocum said he has no idea what Armstrong thought the summons meant.

"I would be totally speculating," Slocum said, "and that would be out of line for me as a coach. It's a private matter."

Wirt said he wished the situation had been settled earlier in the year.

"I didn't want it to be a big deal," Wirt said, "but I feel I've been screwed over a little bit."

Cannon said Armstrong should be treated fairly as any other student would be in his case.

"We should go through the same process," Cannon said. "We need to get to the bottom of it in court of law."

Slocum said Armstrong should not be judged people before he is tried.

"He should get the same justice any student should have in this matter," Slocum said. "I do think we should try him before then. Something getting the cart before the horse. Something unfair about that to me."

Slocum said he does not believe Armstrong's trial, which is scheduled for two days before the ball match-up against the University of Texas, will have any effect on the game.

"We want people to be treated fairly," Slocum said. "We want to get to the bottom of the matter and then see whatever action may or may not be taken after that."

The 1994-95 Texas A&M University Campus Directory

NOW AVAILABLE

STUDENTS: If you ordered a 1994-95 Campus Directory, stop by room 230 Reed McDonald Building between 8:15 a.m. and 4:45 p.m. Monday through Friday to pick up your copy. (Please bring ID.)

If you did not order a Campus Directory as a fee option when you registered for Fall '94 classes, you may purchase a copy for $3 plus tax in the Student Publications office, room 230 Reed McDonald Building.

DEPARTMENTS: 1994-95 Campus Directories are $3 each. You may charge and pick them up in room 230 Reed McDonald Building. (Please have part number, FAMIS account number, account name, billing address, contact person and phone number that directories should be billed to.)

The Campus Directory includes listings of departments, administrators, faculty, staff, students, other information about A&M, plus yellow pages.

RECYCLING: If your building currently is being served by TAMU Recycling, just place your old phone books in a separate container (Plastic sack, cardboard box, etc.) and place it with the rest of your recyclables. You may want to discuss this with your custodial staff or whomever takes care of recycling or your building. Also, a two-day, on-campus phone book drive is planned for old phone books. The drive will take place Nov. 17 & 18. Watch for more information about this event in the future.
