Russia's prisons crowded

U.N. report cites underfed inmates

GENEVA (AP) — Russia's prisons are overcrowded and inhumane, with underfed inmates crammed into stinking, standing-room-only cells, a U.N. report said Thursday.

Conditions in pre-trial detention centers — where first-time offenders accused of petty crimes can wait up to five years for a court appearance — are even worse than labor camps for hardened convicts, the report said.

"The oppressive heat, lack of oxygen, and the odors of sweat, excrement and disease created by gross overcrowding are overpowering," said Nigel Rodley, the U.N.'s special investigator on torture, who wrote the report.

At the invitation of the Russian government, Rodley spent two weeks visiting prisons near Moscow and St. Petersburg, including four pre-trial centers, two police headquarters, one labor camp, one juvenile center and one hospital for seriously ill prisoners.

The Russian government estimates there are 500,000 prisoners in about 528 prisons and penal colonies throughout the country. Russia has the highest rate of detentions in the world.

Rodley said the skyrocketing crime rate following the end of communist control has worsened already serious overcrowding in prisons. He criticized Russian authorities for responding to public concern about crime by throwing petty offenders into jail.

U.N. authority in Bosnia continues to diminish

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina (AP) — The United Nations' authority unraveled further Thursday as Serb fighters kidnapped more U.N. peacekeepers and pressed their stranglehold on the "safe area" of Bihac.

Alexander Ivanko, a U.N. spokesman, said Bosnian Serb units crossed the border into Croatia and seized seven Ukrainian peacekeepers from an observation post. They took the soldiers and a U.N. armored carrier into Bosnian Serb-held territory, and the United Nations has not heard from its soldiers since.

The observation post is now occupied by the Serbs, which allows them unimpeded movement of equipment and personnel from Serb-held Croatia into Bosnia. Serb fighters from the two countries have joined in an offensive to drive Muslim-led Bosnian government forces out of the Bihac region of northwest Bosnia.

Bosnian Serbs did agree to meet Friday with top U.N. envoy Yasushi Akashi in Pale, their stronghold east of Sarajevo. On Wednesday, they refused to meet U.N. chief Boutros Boutros-Ghali because he insisted talks be held in Sarajevo, capital of Bosnia-Herzegovina's internationally recognized government.
