Opposites attract on swimming team

Two senior swimmers lead team to NCAA Championships.

By Kristina Buffin
THE BATTALION

Texas A&M head swimming coach Mel Nash describes them as complete opposites. Anna LePoris is as Texan as you can get, and Jennifer Saul is a Yankee. LePoris' talent is based on her strength, Saul's is based on her finesse and hard work.

What binds the two swimmers together is that this is their senior year and they will be leading the Lady Aggies to the NCAA Championships in March.

"Anna and Jennifer have been so much fun," Nash said. "It will be hard to replace either one of them."

Saul, a psychology major from Avon Lake, Ohio, comes from a strong background in swimming. She earned All-American honors as a junior in high school and shared the Ohio state 50-meter freestyle title the same year.

As a junior at A&M, Saul earned honorable mention All-American honors in six events and finished 14th at the NCAA's in the 50-freestyle.

"She is the hardest working female sprinter that I have ever seen," Nash said. "She is not a wealth of physical swimming talent, but she makes up for it in her work ethic and focus."

LePoris, an exercise technology major from Corsicana, was a two-time all-state selection at Corsicana High School and finished second in the 50-freestyle and 100-meter freestyle at the Texas state championships.

LePoris had to be redshirted in her third year at A&M in order to gain more experience. She was an honorable mention All-American in 1994.

"She has had to catch up each year and redshirting her third year was very rare for swimming," Nash said. "As a fifth-year senior, she is very impressive. It is rare to collect three lifetime bests at the Southwest Conference Championships after sitting out a year."

The Lady Aggies placed third in the SWC Championship last weekend behind the University of Texas and Southern Methodist University.

At that meet, LePoris and Saul had career performances. LePoris collected her best times ever in three events.

She finished fourth in the 100-freestyle (:50.72), seventh in the 50-freestyle (:23.96) and ninth in the 200-meter freestyle (1:49.79). LePoris' times in the 100-freestyle and 200-freestyle rank her second in the A&M all-time records.

"I am very pleased and excited," LePoris said. "These were my best times, and I am more excited than sad that this was my last meet."

Saul finished fourth in the 50-freestyle (:23.37) and seventh in the 100-freestyle (:51.42). She ranks second on the all-time list for the 50-freestyle.

"Overall, I am really happy," Saul said. "I was fast enough to reach my goal."

Both LePoris and Saul qualified for NCAA considerations in their events as did A&M swimmers Susie Geyer, Denean Knapp, Stacie Karnes, Denean Mastagni and diver Jodi Janssen.

"I am very pleased with the results," Nash said. "We have seven people under consideration, and I am 95 to 98 percent sure that they will be going."

The team will find out this weekend whether or not they will be traveling to Indianapolis in March.

Lady Ags: SMU next in path to SWC tourney

from her career-high, 16-point performance against Texas Christian University.

"Most important to me is to just relax," Ferguson said. "The last couple of weeks I had been stressed, but Coach Harvey told me to go out and relax."

Ferguson said the confidence she has acquired over the last several games should help her against the Lady Mustangs.

"I've definitely reached my peak," Ferguson said. "The confidence has helped me do my part to help the team."
