PEOPLE IN THE NEWS

Prince's animated story to be distributed by Walt Disney Co.

LONDON (AP) — An animated film of a children's story by Prince Charles will be distributed on video by the Walt Disney Co., the Sunday Times reported.

"The Legend of Lochnagar," a version of a story Charles wrote in 1970 to entertain his brothers, was animated by a Welsh studio and broadcast on British television in 1993.

The story, with a message about the environment and social responsibility, is about an old man who lives in a cave and disrupts the life around him by installing a hot bath. The newspaper said the prince's profits would go to charity.

Oscar-seeking son looks to overcome Addams family jinx

sic chance to follow in his parents' footsteps.

Twenty-six years after actor-director John Astin's "Prelude" was nominated in the short film category, his son's "Kangaroo Court" is up for an Oscar on Monday in the same category.

John Astin, known best for starring as Gomez in TV's "The Addams Family," lost in 1969. His wife and Sean's mother, Patty Duke, took home the trophy as best supporting actress for 1962's "The Miracle Worker."

"Kangaroo Court" tells the story of a police officer being tried for murder by an inner-city gang. The gang members serve as judge and jury; Gregory Hines plays the policeman's attorney.

"Ever since I was a little kid, I've wanted to make movies," Sean Astin said. To qualify for the short film category, the 24-year-old director was advised he'd have to cut a half-hour from his movie. He took the advice from the producer, Christine Astin, his wife.

Marcia Clark look-alike hopes for more than 'Dancing Itos'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Marcia Clark has been very, very good to Arlene Parness.

A struggling actress for 25 years, Parness is a dead ringer for the curly-haired lead prosecutor in the O.J. Simpson trial.

Earlier this month, Parness got a national audience when she appeared with the "Dancing Itos" — a quintet of Judge Lance Ito look-alikes — on "The Tonight Show with Jay Leno."

On Thursday, she was back on the show with a rose in her teeth, dancing a tango with defense attorney F. Lee Bailey's double.

It beats her other gigs — co-star to a cop in a milk commercial and a corpse in the movie "Outbreak."

"This could all die down and nobody will talk to me when it's all over," Parness said. "But I'm hoping to get enough work by being Marcia Clark that people will know about me ... then I could audition for sitcoms."

Neeson moves from Schindler's List to top of women's list

NEW YORK (AP) — Liam Neeson, who played a Nazi war profiteer in "Schindler's List," seems pleased that he nevertheless has a sex-symbol image.

"It's a compliment and I take it as such," Neeson said in an interview on "The Barbara Walters Special," to be aired Monday night.

But he's not a real ladies man, he said. That would be "somebody who hangs out in lounge bars and says, 'Hi, Baby. Have you seen 'Schindler's List?'"
