Senators hunt deal on spending cuts, House approves defense bill

□ The spending cuts are a top priority for Dole and other GOP senators.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Eager to declare victory and begin their Easter recess, Senate leaders sought to revive a stalled $15 billion package of cuts in social programs after liberal Democrats balked at a potential compromise.

Majority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., and Minority Leader Tom Daschle, D-S.D., labored to find middle ground on the measure Thursday after Democrats rejected a tentative deal the two men — with the backing of President Clinton — had struck Wednesday night.

That agreement would have protected programs for children, housing and jobs from some Republican-sought cuts while slashing other programs even deeper, raising its total savings to $16 billion.

But Democrats, worried that the deal still wounded anti-poverty initiatives that the party has long defended, rebuffed their leader and rejected it.

"It's more than numbers," said Sen. Frank Lautenberg, D-N.J. "It's policy. It's principle. It's a question of what you stand for."

The measure is a top priority for Dole and other GOP senators eager to prove they are as zealous about deficit reduction as their faster-moving House brethren.

The House already has approved a bill slashing $17 billion from home-heating aid, education, public broadcasting and other programs.

With the stakes that high, Dole vowed to delay the Friday start of the Senate's recess until lawmakers completed the spending-cuts bill.

He tried limiting debate, which began March 29, but Democrats held together. The 56-44 roll call was four votes shy of the 60 needed to force a quick vote.

"Be patient, take two aspirins, take a nap, whatever," Dole advised his Republican colleagues as he promised that one way or another, the bill would be completed.

As Daschle and Dole pondered their next moves, the House voted its approval of a $3.1 billion measure replenishing Pentagon coffers drained by peacekeeping operations in Haiti, Somalia and elsewhere.

The Senate was expected to follow House's 343-80 roll call with its own approval, which would send the measure to Clinton for his signature.

Even Daschle conceded that Dole actually would get the votes he needs to pass the spending-cuts bill. He said Democrats might as well accept a down measure that protects some programs from GOP-sought cuts, and credit with Republicans for the deficit reduction and $6.7 billion in assistance to states.

"In spite of the sacrifices we're making here, there is a tremendous amount of advantage to doing this," he told reporters.
