mer come out, bring their books and study, and they absolutely love the environment."

Kay said that despite the many activities the resort has to offer, visiting students can concentrate on studying.

"If you want to study," she said, "people will realize what you're doing, and they will leave you alone. But you're always welcome to join in (the activities)."

For those students who want to quench their curiosity, Live Oak Ranch offers a student special. Students with college IDs can spend the entire day being nude for $10.

Kay said that she and her husband enjoy the nudist lifestyle so much, they will probably remain active nudists for the rest of their lives.

"It's very much like anything else you do in life," she said, "except we have the ability to do it without clothes."

image, and Hastedt said that makes the art even more unique.

"It's fun to see people looking at them and weaving and bobbing to see the pictures," she said. "Every time you come in to see them, you'll see something different."

Barilleaux said holography often requires people to relearn how to look at art.

"It is important to come to each new work of art on its own terms rather than bring to it preconceived assumptions," he said.

Texas A&M is the only place in Texas the exhibit will visit, and Hastedt said people should take advantage of the opportunity to see the holograms.

"This is a one-time opportunity to see it in Texas," Hastedt said. "You normally only get to see holograms on credit cards."

PEOPLE IN THE NEWS

Judge throws out suit against King

FRESNO, Calif. (AP) — A judge has dismissed a paternity lawsuit against Rodney King.

Jada Tah'nessia Goodwin, 25, of Fresno had claimed King was the father of her 2 1/2-year-old son. The Superior Court lawsuit was dismissed after two sets of lab tests ruled him out, said King's former attorney, A. Irving Osser.

King settled a lawsuit last November in San Bernardino County by agreeing to pay child support for a 12-year-old daughter.

Settlement reached in sexual assault case

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Timothy Busfield has reached a settlement with a teen-ager who accused him of sexually assaulting her on the set of Little Big League.

Busfield

The amount of the settlement wasn't disclosed.

The girl, identified in court documents only as R.W., claimed the "thirtysomething" actor gave her an alcoholic drink, assaulted her in his trailer and tried to coerce her into having sex in 1993. R.W., now 18, was an extra in the movie.

A second lawsuit filed by the teen-ager against former Minnesota Vikings running back Keith Henderson will go forward. Henderson, also an extra in the movie, was accused of sexually assaulting her on a parking ramp. Henderson was sentenced earlier this year to six months in prison for the assault on R.W. and two other women.

When the lawsuits were filed in 1994, Busfield and Henderson denied any wrongdoing. Busfield attorney Richard Mark didn't immediately return a call Wednesday.

'Northern Exposure' hits auction block

REDMOND, Wash. (AP) — Chris' Harley-Davidson sold for $13,500. Maurice's antler chair went for $3,200 and Maggie's parka went for $650.

Fans of the canceled CBS series "Northern Exposure" snapped up just about everything ever used on the show.

A three-day auction that ended Sunday brought in $500,000 for Pipeline Productions, the company that produced the series that was dumped after five years.

Joel's boxer shorts and sweat pants went for more than $100 each. A wax statue of Maurice sold for $2,700 and his Lincoln Continental convertible brought in $13,000.

Myers says DUI was 'a very big mistake'

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Dee Dee Myers pulled a Hugh Grant, calling her drunken driving arrest last month "a very big mistake."

The former White House press secretary spoke about her arrest Tuesday for the first time as she promoted her new permanent position opposite Mary Matalin on CNBC's "Equal Time" talk show.

"I made a very big mistake," she said. The arrest is "something that I regret, something that I think I can say with certainty will never happen again."

Myers was arrested June 27 in Washington for driving under the influence. She was fined $2,000 and faces a possible year in jail.

Myers

"This has been a very hard two weeks for me," she said. "I did a really bad thing. I mean, people die from drunk driving. There is nothing funny about it. I'm sorry I've done it, but hopeful I'll learn from it and go on."

Selleck looks to GM for Motor City link

DETROIT (AP) — Tom Selleck played up his Detroit roots by wearing a Tigers cap in "Magnum, P.I." Now he wants to buy a California factory that once built Motor City muscle cars.

Selleck Properties Inc., owned by the actor and his two brothers, has joined with another real estate developer, the Voit Cos., in bidding for a former General Motors Corp. plant in Van Nuys, Calif.

The Sellecks want to turn the plant where Chevrolet Camaros and Pontiac Firebirds were once assembled into a retail and industrial complex.

"We'd like to think that we will be selected by GM for the development," said Selleck's father, Robert Selleck. "But GM may be negotiating with one or two other developers."

GM should make a decision in about 45 days, he said. A GM spokesman wouldn't comment.
