doubt that the key to diversifying (an offense) is to have experience at quarterback.

Ensminger has had plenty of experience coaching successful quarterbacks. He coached Georgia quarterback Eric Zeier, who holds 61 school records and is now a backup to Vinny Testaverde for the Cleveland Browns.

"He has definitely been around," senior quarterback Corey Pullig said. "He coached Zeier, and he uses that to help me with what I can do."

In addition to coaching some of the top college quarterbacks, Ensminger played quarterback at Louisiana State University. He was named team MVP in 1979 and ended his career as the second leading passer in school Ensminger believes that playing collegiate football has helped him relate to his players.

"I have a great relationship with all the quarterbacks," Ensminger said. "They are free to suggest ideas, and I want to hear them. They must understand that they have to know every position on the field.

"I'm very demanding, but I understand certain things."

One of Ensminger's biggest accomplishments since arriving at A&M is the improvement of the offensive line. Last year's line lacked experience, but Ensminger believes that a year of seasoning will show in 1995.

"We threw very well last year, but we didn't run as well," Ensminger said. "But we have more experience in the offensive line; last year we had only one guy with experience. Now, they have gotten used to each other and have more experience together.'

What has made Ensminger different is his previous experience in leadership positions. Ensminger was the offensive coordinator at Louisiana Tech University for two years before moving on to Georgia.

"He is the kind of leader he is because he knows what it takes," sophomore center Koby Hackradt said. "He is always on top of us to work until we get it right. Ensminger has enjoyed his first year at A&M; and is looking forward to a great future with the Aggies. "I came to A&M because it was a good move for my family," Ensminger said. "There is no reason for me to move from A&M. I want to stay as long as possible.

"This is a dream come true. I've always wanted to coach at the Division I-A level, with a top five team and win a national championship.

at the other schools were pretty much sewed up. So, I came down here because there was opportunity for me to come and play early at a tailback trad-tion school. Texas A&M Offensive Coordinator Steve Ensminger said Parker will be given the opport tunity to play this season. Las week against Louisiana State, Parker rushed five times for 18 yards in limited action.

"I'm excited (about Parker)," Ensminger said. "He plays ten tatively, but pays attention. He studies and is at every practice Playing alongside Leeland (McElroy) has helped him work harder, and will help him in the future.'

Besides running back, Parker also lines up with McElro as one of the starting kickoff returners. He said just watch ing McElroy has helped him at both positions.

"I take in mentally things that he does, which has made me a better ballplayer," Parker said. "I look at him run and say Well, he cut right there,' and I take it down mentally. It's not always a one-on-one thing, it's more by example.

SPORTS Pavlik's 3-hitter propels

Rangers past Chicago ARLINGTON (AP) — Roger Pavlik threw a three-hitter for his first career shutout as the Texas Rangers halted the Chicago White Sox' eight-game winning streak with a 2-0 victory Thursday night.

Pavlik (8-9) had lost three of his previous four decisions, but he was in command against a hot-hitting White Sox lineup that was batting .342 with a .558 slugging percentage over the eight-game streak, Chicago's longest since 1991. The complete game was Pavlik's first of the season and fourth of his career. Pavlik pitched out of a ninth-inning jam by making Robin Ventura ground out to short with runners on first and

On Saturday, he will stand beside her at the altar in what seems as much a merger as a marriage, uniting one of figure skating's biggest money-makers with a man once ranked among the most powerful in sports. "We rarely see this kind of professional relationship turn into a marriage," said Jeff Jensen, sports marketing reporter for Advertising Age.

The wedding, details of which have been a closely guarded secret, is to take place at the Church of the Covenant in Boston's tony Back Bay section. About 230 guests have been invited, including 100 members of Kerrigan's family, although most of Kerrigan's skating comrades will be competing in Windsor, Ontario, and unable to attend. A reception is to follow at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in

Sampras charges into U.S. Open semifinals

Cambridge.

NEW YORK (AP) - Pete Sampras charged into the U.S. Open semifinals Thursday, closing out game after game with aces that served as exclamation points, from a 128 mph "Hello!" to a 128 mph "See ya later!"

Among his 22 aces through a whipping wind, seven flew past a dizzy Byron Black on the last point of Sampras' service games, leaving the Zimbabwean with the memory of brute power that lingered in his mind when he stepped up to serve so much less emphatically.

Sampras punctuated the end of his 7-6 (7-3), 6-4, 6-0 romp with an ace that was just as fast as his first serve, showing he was no less tired at the end of the 1 hour, 45 minute semifinal tuneup as he was at the
