BRIEF

Texas Cowboys again suspended for five years

AUSTIN (AP) — The University of Texas has reinstated a five-year suspension against the Texas Cowboy spirit club that hosted an annual "picnic" during which a pledgee, James Vick, UT vice president for student affairs, decided Wednesday that the Cowboys should be suspended from campus until May 31, 1996 for hazing violations.

"The university looks upon hazing as a very serious offense," Vick said. The ban follows the spring suspension during which Gabriel Higgins, "Gabe" Higgins, 19, of Pocatello, Idaho, drowned in the Colorado River at Bastrop County.

According to university officials, Higgins drowned early April 29. An autopsy determined that he was drunk. Higgins disappeared in the river about 2:30 a.m., but the Cowboy Club n't report him missing until more than nine hours later.

Sharon H. Justice, dean of students at UT, announced in June that the Cowboys would be banned for five years. But the group appealed. Hearing officer, professor Gary Jentz, reduced the ban to three years with a subsequent one-year probation.

Immigrants on way back home after roundup

AUSTIN (AP) — About 270 immigrants are on their way back to their home countries after a two-day roundup by federal agents.

Agents from the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service, cracked down on the use of counterfeit identification documents, raided several restaurants in the Luby's restaurant chain as well as construction site landscaping sites and other businesses.

The Luby's cafeteria chain, with seven Austin restaurants, was the largest single target of the operation Monday and Tuesday. Search warrants affidavits said 115 of the cafeteria's 338 employees in Austin used false alien registration cards, commonly called green cards, to get their jobs.

Agents arrested 69 of the Luby's employees, along with at least 202 at other jobs.

Officials said the arrests were part of a national effort made possible by increased funding for immigration enforcement.

Paintings reported stolen in Calif. never left Italy

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A man collected $410,000 from his insurance company after reporting two Italian Renaissance paintings stolen from the bedroom of his California ranch house. But it turns out the artworks had never left the Vatican.

About the only proof of ownership that Lucio Ambroselli had offered when he insured the works three weeks earlier were two amateurish snapshots of the paintings hanging in the Vatican Art Museum, investigators said.

Now State Farm Fire and Casualty Co. wants its money back and Ambroselli has been charged with fraud.

Ambroselli, 57, was arrested last week after more than three years of investigation by the FBI and the Italian Arma de Carabinieri at their unit.

The retired Alitalia employee is accused of swindling State Farm by claiming that the paintings, an Iranian silk rug, a Russian icon and a jade Buddha were stolen in 1992. Police found the rug, icon and statue wrapped in sheets stuffed into a duffel bag when they searched his house on Friday.
