North Carolina architect Gantt to speak in Rudder

Harvey Gantt, an architect active in North Carolina politics, will lecture at Rudder Theater today at 4 p.m.

Gantt was the first African-American to attend Clemson University and recently gained notoriety when he unsuccessfully tried to unseat North Carolina senator Jessie Helms.

University Lecture Series and the College of Architecture are sponsoring the lecture.

Fraternity wins national award at conference

The Texas A&M chapter of Pi Kappa Phi received the Champion Master Chapter Award at the fraternity's national biennial leadership conference.

The A&M chapter was one of three chapters in the nation to win the award. The chapter won nine awards overall.

Hall receives TEES Senior Fellow title, $5,000 grant

Dr. Ken Hall, a Texas A&M chemical engineering professor, received the title of Texas Engineering Experiment Station Senior Fellow at the Texas A&M University Engineering Program fall faculty and staff meeting Sept. 21.

Faculty members must earn the designation of TEES Fellow three years in a row to earn the title of Senior Fellow.

Hall received $5,000 to support his research and a commemorative plaque.

Nation's largest cable-span bridge set to open

BAYTOWN, Texas (AP) — It's three years late and millions of dollars over budget, but Baytown residents couldn't be happier about 2 miles of concrete and steel finally linking their town to the rest of Texas.

The Fred Hartman Bridge — the largest cable-span bridge in the United States — will open to traffic this weekend, offering eight lanes of relief to frustrated motorists.

Until now, ferry boats and a congested, leaky, two-lane tunnel were all that linked Baytown with La Porte and the rest of greater Houston.

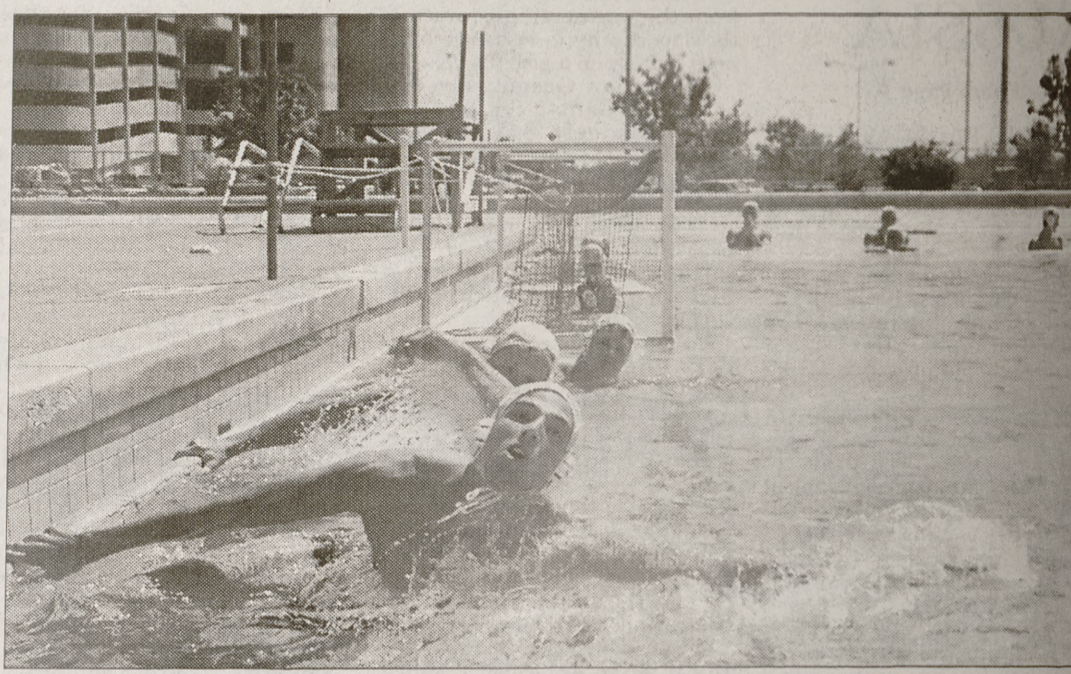

"It will finally open up our part of the county to the rest of the world," said Baytown Mayor Pete Alfaro. "We've been fairly isolated."

Israel, PLO reach West Bank autonomy pact

TABA, Egypt (AP) — After all-night talks, a shouting match and an angry walkout by Yasser Arafat, Israel and the PLO agreed Sunday to sign a pact at the White House ending nearly three decades of Israeli occupation of West Bank cities.

The agreement, the second phase of the 1993 Israel-PLO peace treaty, was hailed by Palestinian leaders as a major step toward their own state. Other Palestinians said it gave them too little, and militant Jewish settlers vowed to do anything necessary to scuttle it.

The 460-page pact allows for Palestinian self-rule in 30 percent of the West Bank — containing most of its Arab population — after a step-by-step Israeli pullout. Israel has occupied the lands since the 1967 Mideast War.
