remaining in the half.
"We decided it was time we quit losing," Cerny said. "We were on a mission and it was huge to get back home and have some fan support."
In its previous three games, it seemed A&M was ruled by Murphy's Law. Harvey said it was nice to break out of that rut Wednesday night.
"Things were getting to a point where we felt like if anything could go wrong for us, it would," Harvey said. "Tonight, we weren't going to be denied and we weren't going to allow bad breaks to get us distracted."
"If we continue to do that, good things will happen for us."
In the second half, it was more of the same for the Aggies. After the Cougars pulled to within 12 points early in the second half, A&M exploded on a 22-9 burst that put them ahead 61-36 with 11:58 remaining. The Aggies would put it on cruise control the rest of the way, eventually landing the 31-point knockout punch.

Tucker

offense from ever gaining any momentum.
The Lady Aggie defense forced 25 turnovers on the evening and held Houston to a dismal 33 percent from the field.
A testament to A&M's choking defense is how they handled Houston's top offensive performer, junior forward Pat Luckey. Luckey, who scored 43 points against Texas Tech University this past weekend, was held in check with only 11 points off 19 attempts against A&M. Luckey went into Wednesday night's action averaging a robust 23.8 points per game.
