

POLICE BEAT

Assault:
 Commons — A verbal exchange escalated to physical contact between the victim and an acquaintance. No charges have been filed.

Intersection of Spence and Lamar Streets — The victim was struck in the head with an ice ball thrown by a subject who ran inside the Heep Building. If the suspect is located and identified, the victim will file charges.

Felony Theft:
 Ocean Drilling Program Building — A first-floor room was entered, and 64 megabytes of memory were removed from a Macintosh Quadra 800 computer.

Criminal Misdemeanor Theft:
 Parking Area 50 — An altercation over a parking space ended when the victim returned to his vehicle and found a bag of sugar on the ground and his car's gas cap off. The victim had the vehicle towed to an automotive shop to check for damage. A suspect was identified and admitted he left the sugar by the vehicle to make the victim believe he had poured sugar in the gas tank.

Misdemeanor Theft:
 Sabisa Dining Center — A purple and green Huffly

Magnum Glacier Point 10-speed bicycle was stolen.

Academic Building — A white and red Sears American Spirit 10-speed bicycle was stolen.

Hensel Terrace Apartments — An white three-speed bicycle was stolen.

Cain Hall — A green and maroon Raleigh 18-speed bicycle was stolen from a basement room.

Hart Hall — A red Motorola pager was stolen from the victim's room.

Hart Hall — A blue Huffly 15-speed bicycle was stolen from a bicycle rack.

Dunn Hall — A red Nishiki 18-speed bicycle was stolen.

Heep Center — The victim's black nylon organizer containing $10 in cash was stolen from a first-floor classroom. The organizer was returned to the victim, but the money was missing.

Sterling C. Evans Library — A maroon Texas A&M backpack containing a textbook and a small notebook was stolen.

CE/TTI Building — A Pentium 90 Processor and two 16-meg chips were removed from a Microage Computer located in a second-floor laboratory.

Teague Building — A maroon Apex jacket with black and gray geometric patches and a pair of brown fake sheep-skin gloves were stolen from a basement laboratory.

Forum member and a sophomore management major, said he was pleased that Bush spoke at Texas A&M. Tucker said Bush shed some light on issues that are relevant to students at A&M, particularly through his question-and-answer session.

The MSC Political Forum is a non-partisan organization," Tucker said.

Marcus Wawzyniak, a graduate mechanical engineering student, said he thinks the money that would be used to renovate the building should go into a scholarship fund that would help students pay for community child care.

Many Graduate Student Council representatives were concerned that if the Granada Building were used, the cost of the renovation would outweigh the benefits.

Edward Woodfin, a graduate history student, said the $800,000 slated for the renovation of the Granada Building er said. "We invite speakers that give information on political issues. I think he offered some insight on current issues."

Hilary Holman, MSC Political Forum chair and a senior political science major, said the audience seemed to enjoy Bush's interaction and that the governor provided thorough answers to students' questions.

"I think he addressed the questions of the audience very well," Holman said. "Sometimes he even gave more information than people asked for."

Earlier in the day, Bush visited the construction area of the George Bush Presidential Library. He said his father made the right decision by choosing Texas A&M for the landmark's location.

"He picked this great University for one reason: Its tradition to good, sound thought," Bush said. "It's the kind of place where he'll want to teach and write."

"I'm pleased that the Bush dream will come true."

John Alvis, a graduate nuclear engineering student, said he is concerned that students' needs are being manipulated by the University.

"The driving force behind the center is the Faculty Senate because they have a need," Alvis said. "They are throwing us a bone right now because student money will be used."

Stephanie Moore, Graduate Student Council president and a meteorology graduate student, said she hopes the child-care committee takes a closer look at the best way to make the center a reality.

"I hope the committee will consider a cost-benefit analysis to determine a feasible plan," Moore said.
