Woman accuses Tyson of sexual battery

CHICAGO (AP) — Mike Tyson has been accused by a 25-year-old Indiana woman of sexual battery in a bar on Chicago's South Side, her lawyer said.

The WBC heavyweight champion had not been charged as of Tuesday night.

Tyson was released from an Indiana prison last March after serving time for a rape conviction. He remains on probation.

Officers at the Chicago Police Department's Wentworth Detective Area on the South Side declined comment on the reports Tuesday night. The First Deputy's office said it had no information on the alleged incident.

Attorney Jerry Lee Peteet said his client, whom he described as a Gary, Ind., beautician and co-owner of a business, accused Tyson of "sexual battery" after an incident Sunday at the bar called The Clique.

Peteet said the woman had gone to the bar with friends and had never met Tyson before. He said she was treated at a Chicago-area hospital after the incident and released early Monday.

Clutch hitting sparks Aggies to pair of wins

Johnny Hunter's ninth-inning, leadoff home run completed the sweep for A&M Tuesday.

Dramatic.

That's the only word to describe Texas A&M Baseball Team's Tuesday evening doubleheader with the Southwest Texas State Bobcats at Olsen Field.

Dave House, THE BATTALION

Texas Aggies Jeff Bailey and Ryan Huffman celebrate after their back-to-back home runs during the fifth inning of the first game Tuesday.

In fact, one might say both games were a little bit too dramatic for the Aggies.

Clutch hitting in their last at-bat squeaked out victories in both contests for the Aggies. Junior right fielder Johnny Hunter crushed the first pitch of the bottom ninth inning over the left centerfield wall to win the nightcap 9-8.

Junior designated hitter Chad Allen singled home the winning run in the bottom of the seventh and final inning of the first game to give the Aggies a 6-5 victory.

Hunter, who said he was shocked to see a first-pitch fastball, knew his seventh homer of the season was going out of the park just by feeling the ball hit his bat.

"It was right down the middle," Hunter said. "I couldn't believe I saw that pitch. I just hit it and everything felt good."

The Aggies let leads slip away late in each game. In the first game, the Aggies led 5-3 heading into the seventh inning before Southwest Texas rallied for two runs off of senior relief pitcher Tim Clarkson to tie the game at 5-5.

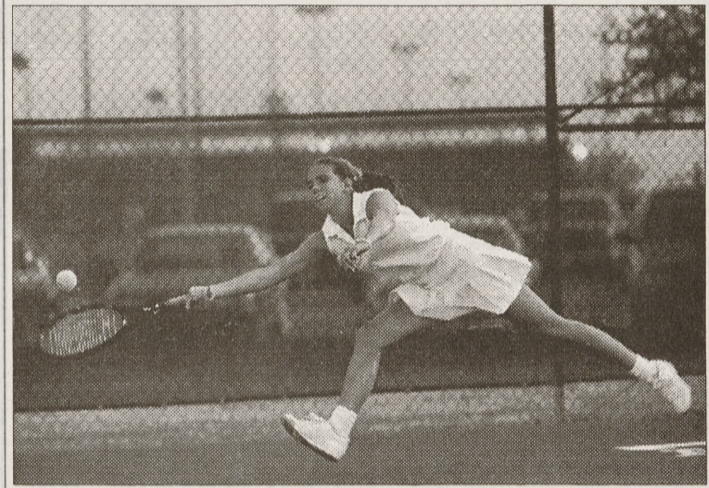

But senior second baseman Paul Barber walked to lead off the Aggie half of the seventh and came around to score the winning run when Allen slapped a single through the hole to right field off Bobcat pitcher Steve Smith.

A&M actually trailed the Bobcats through five innings, but stormed back to score three runs off junior shortstop Rich Petru's RBI single and back-to-back solo home runs from senior first baseman Jeff Bailey and senior center fielder Ryan Huffman.

It was Bailey's third homer of the season, while Huffman registered his sixth. Huffman struck again in the second game, collecting his seventh round-tripper of the season in his first at bat.

In the second game, A&M led 8-3 after six innings but let the Bobcats back in the game by allowing four runs to cross the plate with two outs in the top of the seventh inning. In the top of the ninth inning, Southwest Texas State designated hitter Matt Schnabel homered to tie the contest at 8-8. But Bobcat hopes of an upset victory were foiled with Hunter's heroics

Lady Longhorns justify No.5 rank

Texas A&M junior Julie Beahm lunges after a volley Tuesday at the Omar Smith Tennis Center. A&M lost to UT to finish second in the SWC.

THE BATTALION

The No. 26 Texas A&M Women's Tennis Team was No. 5 Texas last victim on the Lady Longhorns way to their fifth straight Southwest Conference crown with a 7-2 win Tuesday night at the Omar Smith Tennis Center.

A&M Head Coach Bobby Kleinecke said his team's main goal was to stay close to Texas.

"Our goal was to compete and to stay in position," Kleinecke said. "We just did not come up with the right points at the right time."

It was a close affair with three singles matches ending in three-set duels. A&M's top seed Nancy Dingwall lost to eighth-seeded Farley Taylor, 6-7, 6-0, 6-1. Dingwall's doubles partner, Wilson Pate, did not fare much better, losing to UT's Cristina Moros, 6-3, 6-7, 6-4.

Kleinecke said it was a disappointing loss, but he was glad A&M was able to challenge Texas.

"We came out and competed hard and we had our chances," Kleinecke said. "The difference was that Texas played better on the big points. That is why they are the defending national champions. They're not going to give you anything easy."

Junior Julie Beahm was the sole singles victor for the Lady Aggies with a 6-4, 6-4 win over Anne Pastor — Beahm's second straight No. 6 singles title. She teamed with sophomore Vanessa Rooks to win her third straight No. 3 doubles crown.

Beahm's five career SWC individual titles is the most by any male or female in A&M history.

In doubles action, Dingwall and Pate lost a close match to the Taylor/Moros team, 6-2, 6-7, 6-3. Logan and Anna Strakosova lost to Melody Falco and Laura Berendt, 6-2, 6-2, while Beahm and Rooks defeated Rasolomalala and Ashley Mokrey 8-1.

"I don't think the doubles played their best," Logan said. "We weren't bad, but we just didn't play like I know we can. I was a little tired, but that wasn't the main deal."

All hope is not lost for the Lady Aggies. The final SWC tournament will be held April 19-21 and Logan said the team will be ready to play.

"We knew we were right there with them," she said. "If we get a chance to play Texas, we'll know that it will be close."

Before the tournament, the Lady Aggies will finish out the regular season with home matches against Southwestern Louisiana and the University of Texas-Arlington next week.

"We have a big portion of the season left," Kleinecke said. "This loss isn't going to kill us. We were the underdogs and we grow from our losses. We'll lick our wounds and come back."
