For 13 days in May, 50 members of the Singing Cadets spread the spirit of Aggieland from Washington, D.C., to New York City. The cadets sang at historic places such as Carnegie Hall, the Statue of Liberty, the World Trade Center, the Kennedy Center and on the U.S. Capitol steps. Performing at Carnegie Hall and the Kennedy Center was special for the Singing Cadets because it was the first time they had performed at these places. The trip was funded by the Singing Cadets' earlier performances and compact disc sales, in addition to a gift from the Association of Former Students and the vice president for Student Affairs. Robert Reed, tour manager and a senior environmental design major, said he enjoyed singing at Carnegie Hall I just kept thinking of who all had been on this stage before," he said. "It was a neat experience for me because I'd never been to New York and I got the opportunity to go with Singing Cadets and enjoy it with a lot of my friends. Reed said he also enjoyed touring in Philadelphia and Washington, D.C. "We sang at the Christ Church in Philadelphia, then the next day we went to the National Cathedral in D.C.," Reed said. "Singing outside the U.S. Capitol was really a thrill. It was so neat being that close to so many important people."

The Singing Cadets received quite a bit of mail regarding their performance in Washington, D.C.

"One little girl told her mother she had a crush on a particular guy who sang a solo,' said Singing Cadets Director David Kipp. "She wants to go to A&M when she gets old enough, and she's already asked her parents to move to Texas so she can be closer to the Singing Cadets and Texas A&M.

The Singing Cadets also attended the Arlington National Cemetery with President Bill Clinton on Memorial Day, but only as observers.

Kipp said he has had a great first year af-but is single.

"Affordability was definitely

"It wasn't too bad," he said,

Sansom said many students move off campus for the wrong reasons and should consider all of the pros and cons before making a decision.

challenge to follow someone like Bob Boone,

"Singing Cadets gives you ... opportunities to spread the spiritof Aggieland," Jones said. "There's nothing like it"

The Singing Cadets will not practice this summer, but the cadets here for summer school are recruiting freshmen. Reed said the singers have a special bond.

"You get to be really close friends with all the guys," Reed said. "Everyone has a lot of love for A&M. That's our bond."

Tim Angle, a junior political science major, said the trip to New York and singing at Carnegie Hall were unbelievable experiences.

Carnegie Hall were unbelievable experiences.

"The camaraderie makes it all worth while," Angle said. "It's a once-in-a-lifetime thing."Kipp said the cadets received mail commending them on their patriotism and inspiring performances.

"One of my favorite things ... is sharing our time and Aggie spirit," Reed said. "It's neat to see the reactions of former students, but also from people who have never heard of A&M."
