Yankees add Fielder, Padres acquire Vaughn

(AP)The New York Yankees acquired slugger Cecil Fielder from the Detroit Tigers on Wednesday night, only about an hour before the midnight trading deadline.

The Yankees gave up Ruben Sierra and minor league pitcher Matt Drews for the Tigers star, who had been vocal about wanting to escape Detroit and play for a contender. The Yankees led Baltimore by 10 games in the AL East, while Detroit had the worst record in the major leagues.

The Fielder deal was the second of the day involving a big power hitter. Earlier, the San Diego Padres acquired all-star outfielder Greg Vaughn from the Milwaukee Brewers.

The Padres also sent Mark Hutton to the Florida Marlins for David Weathers in an exchange of pitchers.

Also, Seattle picked up left-hander Terry Mulholland from Philadelphia, and Los Angeles acquired Chad Curtis from Detroit.

"I'm just happy to have the opportunity to go somewhere with someone in contention and I'll try to help the New York Yankees win the pennant and the World Series," Fielder said in Detroit. "I feel good about going out there."

Fielder, who hit 51 homers in 1990 - including his 50th at Yankee Stadium - has hit at least 28 homers in six consecutive seasons. He is hitting .248 this year with 26 homers and 80 RBIs.

Detroit has been interested in trading Fielder, but his large salary has been a drawback. He is due $2,360,656 for the remainder of this season and $7.2 million in 1997, part of a five-year contract worth $36,187,500.

Vaughn will fill a power need for the Padres, who are in the midst of a tight race in the NL West. Vaughn is having his best season with 31 home runs, 95 RBIs and a .280 batting average, but he was eligible for agency following the season.

The Brewers were thought to have little hope of signing Vaughn, who is making $5,425,000 this season.

The Padres gave up the prospects for the 31-year-old star outfielder: pitchers Ron Florie and Ron Villone and fielder Marc Newfield.

Vaughn, who homered against Seattle on Tuesday night, was signed by the Padres in 1986 and had spent his career with the organization.

"We felt power was important if we are going to compete with the Giants, Rockies, Dodgers," Padres general manager Kevin Towers said. "It sends a message that we're serious about winning."

Meanwhile, the Mariners hope Mulholland will fill the pitching void in Seattle in the absence of Randy Johnson, who has been on the disabled list with a nerve problem in his back. Mulholland is the second pitcher acquired in two days by the Mariners, who picked southpaw Jamie Moyer from Boston Red Sox for outfielder Darren Bragg on Tuesday.

In exchange for Mulholland, the Mariners gave up one of their top prospects, minor league infielder Deshaun Phillips. Mulholland, 33, was a several Phillies on the trade block as Philadelphia, who has the NL's worst record, looked to build for the future.

In Mulholland, the Mariners get a pitcher who revived his career this season in Philadelphia after going 5-13 with a 4.6 ERA last year in San Francisco. With the Phillies, who have only 43 games, Mulholland went 8-7 with a 4.66 ERA in six starts. He led the Phillies' ERA in complete games with two and innings with 133 1-3.

The Dodgers were in need of a leadoff hitter to fill the void left by Brett Butler.

is sometimes hard. "Once they start drinking they're having fun and won't let us control," he said. "They have control."

Hilbig said students can control alcohol consumption by being aware of the potentially dangerous atmosphere.

Gutierrez said some students realize the dangers of alcohol consumption, but don't care. "Sometimes it's peer pressure and they just go along with the crowd," he said.

Hilbig said students don't realize the dangers associated with alcohol and don't think about the potential consequences. "After so many (drinks) they don't keep track of how much they've had and just keep having good time," she said.

Gutierrez said people who lose control with alcohol get into bad situations, such as fights, and others have to pay for their actions. He said limiting the intake of alcohol is the key to staying out of trouble.

"Drink as much as you can take," Gutierrez said. "Don't ever exceed it to where you have control over your actions."

ALCOHOL

Preventive actions range from asking a bartender to add less alcohol to a drink or simply stopping a friend from drinking once they reach a set limit.
Benbow said a designated driver should be in possession of car keys before drinking even starts. "It's harder to get the keys (from someone) after they've been drinking," he said.
"When drinking and driving mix, risk for danger skyrockets and laws are soon implemented." A&M has been labeled as the Division I university in the country.
Christa Hilbig, a junior petroleum engineering major, said alcohol is an escape from everyday pressures.
"I think they want to go out and have a good time and not worry about school or anything like that," she said.
Alberto Gutierrez, a senior business analysis major, said students should stop drinking once they reach a certain limit, but stopping

Each student commented on the camaraderie of the theater department, which is small and sometimes ignored.
"We feel we're often overlooked," Reynolds said. "People are surprised we're able to do such good work in a department that's so obscure."
De Leon said the students are counting on word-of-mouth publicity, and they are confident there will be a good turnout.

Reynolds said the performers should offer something slightly different each night.

"With method acting, all the performances will be different," Reynolds said. "So you should come see it as many nights as you can."
