

THINK YOU'VE GOT EVERY CARD IN THE WORLD?

Guinness record holder Walter Cavanagh displays a small portion of his whopping 1,199 credit card collection. He says he won't stop until he owns all of the over 10,000 cards now issued.

YOU DON'T HAVE THE MOST REMARKABLE CARD OF ALL.

GET IT SEPTEMBER 11TH.

WATCH YOUR MAIL OR THIS PAPER FOR DETAILS.

Randalls

CRs'

Members of publicans happy with amendment.

They cited it in a socially condescending way. They he themselves like a 19-year-old bulletproof vest. The Colleague of their fundraising letter. But the organization of its love is more mundane.

As a matter of fact, the Colleague. The Colleague with those of us.

Most of the fliers are now, but last week, it was at an all-time high. Kiosk after kiosk was draped with a red and blue fliers promoting the group.

My impression was that nothing was going on during the entire week except for the Colleague. I saw no fliers for other organizations. No one even invited me for $40 a week.

When the group launched a specific program, it was a service cause, it was understandable.

The ones advertised in the speech were forgivable because of a specific program.

But many of the

Visitation

Nearly all students welcome to college as a break from the rules they have been forced to obey at home.

In college, people decide which moral they will follow and make each decision independent of parental authority.

Freedom is certainly an advantage to living at home. It is an advantage to growing up.

For the most part, it shows students the freedom as they will, and they are prepared to take their decisions. It is not the case for years, which must be that is, unless it is after curfew and happens to be in the

Round

Oh yeah. They behind the pages of the newspaper every week of every semester.

Columnist

Mason Jackson
Senior marketing major pedestrian thoroughfare. After all, who can blame them for their third child (a pet rock) Visa?

Truly, though, how can one person use coupons containing the purchase of a product?

And how about the M&M, running the M&M people who starve them you don't convince them you don't.

Here's a possible solution: salespeople located conveniently available to handle their wares.

Thought together in the 'Rural O' Vendors.' That way, students can take care of all their needs during a semester (getting, Transit and Transit when they decided 46 might be too many for